State Says Doctor Admitted Killing Victim Of Cancer

Prosecutor Says Accused Knew Law Broken; Claimed Law Bad

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—The State said today that Dr. Hermann N. Sander admitted killing a 59-year-old cancer patient with air injections and claimed he did it at the pleading of her husband to relieve her suffering.

Attorney-General William L. Phinney made the assertion as he outlined the State's case against the 41-year-old doctor to a 13-man jury trying him for murder.

Phinney quoted Dr. Sander as saying that he knew he "might have broken a law but that the law was not right . . . and should be changed."

Dr. Sander is charged specifically with killing Mrs. Abbie Borroto by giving her air injections with a hypodermic as she lay dying of cancer in hospital last Dec. 4.

Phinney said that Sander, in reply to a question from Dr. Robert Biron, county medical referee, said he thought Mrs. Borroto would have lived probably two more days.

LOST HIS WIFE

It was disclosed meanwhile the foreman of the jury saw his own wife die of cancer last Palm Sunday.

The disclosure was made by Dallas Cutter, Hillsboro grocer and brother of Louis C. Cutter, 40, the jury foreman. The family physician, Dr. Thor Olsen, confirmed the statement.

Attorney-General William C. Phinney told reporters he knew Cutter's wife, Leona, had died of cancer when he was seated as a juror.

Both the prosecution and defence indicated Cutter would remain on the jury.

TOLD BY BROTHER

The foreman's brother made the disclosure while talking with reporters after the jury visited the scene of the death of Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto, 59, wife of a Manchester oil salesman.

When questioned for jury duty, Cutter stated his wife died last year. He was not asked the nature of her illness at that time.

Dallas Cutter told reporters his brother's wife had been bed-ridden about a year and suffered intensely before she died. About four years before her death, he said, she underwent an operation in an effort to rectify the condition.

The cutters had no children. The widower foreman is the youngest member of the panel.

Says U.S. About Ready For New Loan To Tito

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is reported about ready to grant an emergency loan to Yugoslavia. The idea is to keep the Yugoslav economy from being strangled by a trade boycott led by Russia.

American officials said the loan—which would be second by the U.S. to Marshal Tito since he broke with Moscow—would be relatively small. It might be $10,000,000 or $15,000,000, to be used for the purchase of U.S. cotton, petroleum and other urgently needed raw materials.

They said that amount still would be extremely helpful to Yugoslavia in its present economic plight.

Confidential reports to the State Department indicate there is danger of unemployment in Yugoslav textile mills and other industries unless Tito gets financial help in a hurry.

The Russian trade boycott has cut off more than 50 per cent of Yugoslavia's trade with outside countries. These reports have spurred consideration of a new loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank.

The State Department believes it is essential to keep Tito in power as a symbol of resistance to Moscow domination.

The first American government loan to Tito was granted last fall for $20,000,000.

PLANE CARRIES ONE VOTER TO POLLING BOOTH IN BRITAIN

LONDON (CP)—One voter chartered a special plane to fly him to his constituency to vote in today's British general election. Another, in filling out his ballot, mistook it for a ticket on the weekly football pool.

These were but a few of the oddities that added color to the heavy polling.

In Wales black-faced coal miners marched straight into the polling booths after coming off the night shift—in working clothes, helmets and all.

$45,000,000 FOR BRITISH WHEAT DEAL

E.C.A. Approves Purchases From Canada And U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain today received authority to buy $45,000,000 worth of Canadian and U.S. wheat under the Marshall Plan.

Of the total, $30,000,000 will be used to buy wheat in Canada, the announcement said. The remaining $15,000,000 is earmarked for wheat and wheat flour from the U.S.

The Economic Co-Operation Administration announced the recovery spending approval in new foreign aid allotments to seven European countries.

The agency set a May 31 deadline for completion of contracts for the wheat shipments. It said deliveries of the Canadian grain must be made by July 31 and the America deliveries by June 30.

It was the first big grain purchase by Britain approved this year by E.C.A.

UNDER AGREEMENT

Buying of the Canadian grain was approved, E.C.A. officials said, to enable Britain to meet its commitments under the international wheat agreement.

E.C.A. also granted Norway $2,150,000 to buy U.S. wheat and wheat flour.

France, $300,000 worth of non-ferrous ores from Canada; Sweden, $730,000 to pay for industrial metals, chemicals and professional equipment from the U.S. and Canada.

10 Per Cent On Device Goes To Inventor

VANCOUVER (BUP)—British Columbia inventor Harry Higging of Alta Lake will get 10 per cent of all profits on his device to sterilize telephones by use of ultra violet rays.

Mr. Justice N. Whittaker of the B.C. Supreme Court handed down a judgment in Higging's favor in Vancouver Wednesday against M. G. Crosbie and John Backie, Vancouver promoters and research company.

He ordered the promoters and their company to account for all money they received from any source for the financing, production and sale of the machine under an agreement with Higging made three years ago.

The Vancouver inventor says he worked 15 years to perfect his device for sterilizing telephones.

Airline Murder Trial Under Way

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—An unexpected defence request for adjournment was refused today as the trial of J. Albert Guay, charged with murdering his wife by time-bombing an airliner Sept. 9, got under way.

Chief Judge Albert Sevigny turned down a motion from defence counsel Gerard Levesque that the trial be postponed because a star witness was unable to take part.

Judge Sevigny quickly granted a prosecution motion that the 12-man panel of jurors be chosen.

Standing erect, the 32-year-old Guay pleaded not guilty to the Crown charge that he murdered his wife, Rita, 29, by time-bombing a Canadian Pacific airliner Sept. 9, in which 22 persons also were killed. The slightly-built Guay, looking remarkably cool and composed, heard his lawyer claim an adjournment because the captain of the ship, the Clarke Steamship Lines, was not available for testimony.

"Begin is one of the most important witnesses for the defence," he said.

Begin, who Levesque claimed was with Guay two days before the crash, and who informed the Quebec jeweler of the tragic plane crash, was on a ship near the equator.

"He can't appear until May 15," Levesque said.

Prosecutor Noel Dorion rose quickly to claim Levesque's request was a "dilatory measure" to further delay the trial.

MOTION REJECTED

Judge Sevigny refused Levesque's motion.

Bitter weather outside the courtroom reduced the numbers of the general public present. Sheriff Alme Dion said several jurors of the 215 Quebecers told to report for the trial also were absent.

It was expected the choice of the 12-man jury panel would take at least 48 hours, court officials said.

If you must buy a diamond, get it from a reputable jeweler.

That is the advice of city police, who have suspicions that imitation diamonds now on the Vancouver market may appear on the Victoria scene soon.

Diamond experts in the mainland city say the stones being passed, while only worth about $5, could be sold as the genuine article to the unsuspecting for from $600 to $700.

Imported from the United States, the imitations are of any type of diamond, including canary and blue.

Odds On Win For Labor Shorten As Tories Bet

LONDON (CP)—Heavy voting today marked the start of Britain's crucial general election which will decide whether the British people want a Socialist government to run their little island kingdom for another five years.

Large turnouts at the polls were reported in the early hours at London, Hull, Birmingham, Liverpool and Glasgow. A total record vote was possible.

The choice before more than 34,000,000 voters: Re-election of Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government, pledged to put still more industries under state control; or a return to the Conservative rule of wartime Premier Winston Churchill, who promised to halt nationalization but keep most of Britain's welfare state security measures.

The voting was expected to be close. Victory or defeat for Labor—in power since July, 1945—hangs chiefly on domestic issues.

For these people of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, neither party promised any relaxation of the austerity under which Britons have lived since wartime. And no party has suggested dropping the ambitious social services established by Labor.

So the choice for Mr. and Mrs. John Bull is based on which kind of government they think will keep the breadwinner employed, lower their heavy taxes, boost their salaries and cut their living costs.

Reuters said odds against a Conservative victory shortened to 11 to 10 from earlier betting of 6 to 4 against.

A leading London firm of bookmakers, which has been laying odds on the election result for the last six months, said substantial betting on a Conservative victory had caused a drop in prices. Election gamblers were laying bets of hundreds of pounds sterling.

Many Britons were at some of the more than 50,000 polling stations before opening time in the gray winter dawn at 7 a.m., B.S.T. (11 Wednesday night, P.S.T.).

Cast Ballots On Way To Work

Workers in industrial Birmingham were stopping in at the polls on their way to work. In several London sections voters were scratching their ballots at the rate of three a minute.

In London and many parts of eastern England the voters had dry weather. But in western England and in Scotland many of them had to trudge through cold winter drizzles and nasty mists to cast their ballots.

The Air Ministry's special election morning forecast was for occasional rain everywhere in Britain at some time during the day.

The pro-Labor weekly New Statesman and Nation had predicted that rain would hurt Labor and help the Conservatives.

Bath major parties had urged a record vote to insure themselves a winning majority. Both of them had expressed confidence of victory.

Political observers predicted that 75 to 80 per cent of the qualified voters—everyone over 21 except peers, convicts and lunatics—would cast ballots.

In the last election in 1945 more than 25,000,000 people, or 73 per cent of the electorate, voted.

Voting was for 622 of the 625 seats in the new House of Commons. Voting in a Manchester constituency has been postponed through the death of a Conservative candidate, and two Conservatives won election by acclamation in Northern Ireland.

Second Vote To Test House In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Manitoba's Coalition government faced its second non-confidence motion of the current Legislature session today after defeat of a C.C.F. want of confidence move by a vote of 44 to 8.

George Renouf (Ind. P.C., Swan River), leader of the Independent Coalition group, made the second non-confidence motion Wednesday immediately after the C.C.F. move had been defeated.

The motion expressed regret that the government saw fit to continue the Coalition form of government in peacetime, contrary to parliamentary traditions.

The C.C.F. motion, moved by Opposition Leader E. A. Hanson, had deplored the government's alleged failure to cope with the problems of housing, unemployment, rent controls and markets for agricultural products. It was supported only by the seven-man C.C.F. group and William Kardash, the lone Labor Progressive Party member of the House.

EFFECTS OF COAL STRIKE SPREADING

Lewis Nearing Last Chance To Avert Danger Of Colossal Fine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Today brought John L. Lewis just about his last chance to head off the danger of a multi-million dollar fine against his 370,000-odd striking coal miners.

The chance—a quick agreement during the day or night on a strike-ending contract—looked slim to government observers sitting in on inconclusive negotiations between Lewis and the coal operators.

Meanwhile, the growing scarcity of coal clamped an ever tightening grip on industries and homes across the United States.

There continued to be talk on Capitol Hill that Congress might vote power for President Truman to seize the coal mines and tell the miners to work in them as employees of the government. The White House said nothing.

DEADLINE 10 A.M.

This is Lewis' last chance because tomorrow at 10 a.m. E.S.T., the United Mine Workers are under orders from Judge Richmond B. Keach to "show cause" why the union shouldn't be found in contempt of court. If the union explanations don't satisfy the judge, there will be a formal hearing Monday on a contempt order.

It was Judge Keach who issued a back-to-work order Feb. 11 that has been ignored by the miners. They have stayed away from the pits crying "no contract, no work." Although Lewis instructed them to go back, he, too, may come in for Judge Keach's attentions.

Lewis and the operators were deadlocked over new contract terms, despite the peace efforts of conciliation director Cyrus S. Ching and David L. Cole. Cole is the chairman of the presidential fact-finding board appointed under the Taft-Hartley Labor Act emergency strike provisions.

Whether Lewis and the operators were close to agreement on a new pact after more than 10 months of negotiations remained to be seen. Neither side would say there had been any progress. The government observers were similarly pessimistic.

But the court's order hanging over Lewis and the union was a powerful incentive to hasten an agreement.

The mounting effect of the coal shortage was another incentive. A state of emergency was declared in Erie, Pa., a city of 140,000 people. Under it, all industries will close down next Sunday and Monday, and may be still another day next week. Erie's mayor said coal supplies are desperately short.

Roving bands of pickets swept down on non-union mines in Pennsylvania. Three men were beaten near Clearfield. State police estimated that $4,000 damage had been done to two mines in the Ligonier area. Iron Age, an industrial trade journal, estimated that steel mills generally will have to cut blast furnace operations by as much as 75 per cent next week. In an increasing number of U.S. cities, various coal-saving tactics were ordered. Street lighting was cut down, some schools were closed for lack of heat, and industrial layoffs continued.

75,000 IDLED

The estimated number of non-miners being made idle by the strike was expected to pass 75,000 when the full effect of a 23,000-man layoff at Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation is felt.

In the meantime, some additional information became available on how far apart Lewis and the operators are on the matter of a new contract.

Although there was no confirmation from the operators, it was understood several of them agreed to grant Lewis a "package" of concessions totaling 80 cents a day a man. Lewis was known to be holding out for more than that.

His basic demands, granted by nearly 2,000 smaller companies mining 45,000,000 tons of coal, are for a 95-cent daily pay increase above the present scale of $14.05 and a 15-cent boost in the welfare fund royalty on each ton of coal, now 20 cents a ton.

'Mercy Killing' Victim Already Dead, Is Claim

Prosecution Says Accused Man Admitted Breaking Of Bad Law

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UP)—The defence at Dr. Hermann M. Sander's mercy murder trial indicated today it will try to prove that his cancer-stricken patient already was dead before he injected air into her veins.

The startling disclosure came during cross-examination of the first prosecution witness, Dr. Harold I. L. Loverud. An X-ray specialist, he is staff president of Hillsborough County Hospital, where Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto, 59, died last Dec. 4, allegedly after Dr. Sander administered the air.

Att.-Gen. William L. Phinney, in opening the prosecution's case, had quoted the 41-year-old defendant as saying he injected the lethal dose of air to his dying patient only after her husband had begged him to do so to relieve her suffering. Dr. Sander also was quoted that Mrs. Borroto "would have lived two more days" if he had not injected the air.

It was while white-haired chief defence counsel Louis E. Wyman was cross-questioning Dr. Loverud that the new theory—that Mrs. Borroto already was dead when the air was injected—was disclosed.

The state's second witness was William L. Cain of Manchester, a funeral director and operator of an ambulance service.

Under direct examination by Assistant Att.-Gen. William S. Green, Cain testified that when he and his 18-year-old son took Mrs. Borroto from her home to a hospital last Nov. 20 she "probably weighed 60 to 75 pounds."

He said after her death he noted her body was "extremely emaciated."

Cain testified on direct examination that when he embalmed the body of Mrs. Borroto he "removed all the blood possible from her veins" before injecting the embalming fluid.

It was expected that Cain's testimony might be used by the State later in combatting possible testimony by a defence pathologist about the cause of death in an autopsy performed Jan. 21.

Asked during lunch recess why the State had not held Mrs. Borroto's husband as an accessory, in view of the disclosure Phinney made in his opening statement, the Attorney-General replied:

"We found no basis on which he could be charged as an accessory."

It was in his opening statement that Phinney, former schoolmate of the defendant, quoted Dr. Sander as saying Mrs. Borroto's husband urged him to hasten her death.

Phinney devoted nearly an hour to his opening. He said Dr. Biron asked Dr. Sander if he had broken the law.

Heavy Vote In Britain Despite Drizzling Rain

Boy Gets Two-Year Sentence

Concurrent Term Covers Thirteen Charges Of Theft

Richard Gordon Gray, the Victoria boy who admitted 13 shopbreaking offences in the city, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today.

He received the same term on each sentence to run concurrently.

Two other youths, charged jointly with Gray on one charge, got lesser penalties.

They were James Riley and Clayton Ernest Sanders, both about 19. Magistrate Hall remanded them to the Oakalla Prison Farm to March 9 for a report from the prisoner's psychiatric clinic. This is to determine if they are able to qualify for Borstal School.

NOTHING TO SAY

All showed no emotion when sentences were announced. Each one told the magistrate they had nothing to say. Gray will appear in Esquimalt court Thursday for sentence on four more charges of the same nature.

Vernon Samuel Umphreys, Esquimalt, appeared in the dock this morning and was charged with breaking and entering Olson Motors and committing theft on Jan. 28. He was remanded to tomorrow for the purpose of securing counsel.

Charges against the four appearing in the senior court arose from investigations which culminated in the arrest of nine teen-age boys last week-end by Detectives Angus Munro and Louis Callan, aided by a valuable lead provided by Esquimalt police. The six, under 18, arrested are being dealt with in Juvenile Court.

The Chris Spencer Foundation today withdrew its application for permission to erect a new $100,000 Welfare Building on Harris Green.

The request will come up for discussion at City Council meeting Tuesday.

While the second-choice site is expected to give clearer sailing insofar as the general public is concerned there has been opposition voiced in some civic circles on the grounds that the area is potential first-rate commercial property.

Alberta Plans To Increase Public Works

EDMONTON (BUP)—The Alberta government disclosed today it will substantially boost its expenditures on public works during the next year.

The disclosure was made in the Throne Speech read by Lieutenant-Governor J. J. Bowen at the opening of the third session of Alberta's 11th Legislature.

The speech also forecast major developments in agriculture, irrigation, health and welfare.

His honor told the assembled legislators and guests that it was government policy to turn over record revenue from oil to capital expenditures.

Odds On Win For Labor Shorten As Tories Bet

LONDON (CP)—Drizzling rain dampened most of Britain late today, but failed to stop the flood of general election voters in what was believed the heaviest poll in years.

With the after-work rush still to come, scattered estimates were that between 30 and 35 per cent of the electorate had voted before the clear skies of morning and afternoon began to cloud.

Voters turned out with umbrellas and mackintoshes. Some Scots—in the extreme north—braved swirling snowfalls.

The weathermen this afternoon predicted: "Occasional rain for the next 24 hours."

The rain was spreading slowly eastward from the Atlantic over the whole country.

From all country areas of the south coast came reports of exceptionally heavy voting, with women out in force.

In Hastings and Rye it was estimated that 60 per cent of the electorate had polled before dark. The area was the last to be hit by rain.

Large turnouts at the polls were reported in the early hours at London, Hull, Birmingham, Liverpool and Glasgow. A total record vote was possible.

Millionaire Sleeps As Thieves Get Jewel Haul

CLEVELAND (AP)—Six hooded bandits boldly burst into the spacious home of multi-millionaire William G. Mather early today, slugged his wife and got away with jewelry valued at between $200,000 and $800,000.

Moving with command-like precision, the robbers were armed with a sub-machine gun and revolvers.

Mather, 93-year-old honorary board chairman of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co., slept through the entire operation.

tationing one man outside in case the burglar alarm went off, the robbers entered the main residence through a servants' entrance. None of the seven servants heard them.

Then they sauntered into a second floor bedroom, where the 60-year-old Mrs. Mather was asleep and flashed the beam of a flashlight in her face. She awoke to find a man standing over her with a sub-machine gun.

The leader asked Mrs. Mather: "What is the combination of the safe? We want only money and jewelry."

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

SISTER KENNY

AS ONE WHO has long followed with very close interest the work of Sister Elizabeth Kenny, who developed a method of treatment for infantile paralysis, I was intrigued when, on glancing through a recent copy of the U.S. Congressional Record, her name caught my eye.

That official report of the proceedings in the United States Congress, which corresponds with Canada's Hansard, recorded the passage of legislation designed to facilitate the entry of the Australian nurse as a temporary visitor, as often as she wishes, exempt from the usual immigration restrictions and from the customary $5 head tax. The bill has since been signed by President Truman, and becomes effective immediately.

SENATE RESOLUTION

RESOLUTIONS from both the House of Representatives and the Senate were couched in identical terms and started out as follows:

"Resolved, etc., That Elizabeth Kenny, also known as Sister Elizabeth Kenny, a native of Warrillala, New South Wales, Australia, be, and hereby is, granted the privilege of entering the United States as a temporary visitor as often or as frequently as she may desire to enter, notwithstanding that under the provisions of section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1924, as amended, she would be classed an immigrant, and notwithstanding that at the time of such entry or entries she does not possess an immigration visa, passport visa, transit certificate, or other document entitling an alien to present himself for admission to the United States."

UNPRECEDENTED PRIVILEGE

BY THUS extending the "open door" to Sister Kenny, Congress conferred upon her an unprecedented privilege, a member of the House Judiciary Committee staff describing the bill as one of the broadest, in its individual application, of any immigration measure ever passed by Congress.

This generous gesture by a great country to a woman of an alien country—and, of course, Australia is "foreign" to the United States—is significant as another evidence of the awakening desire to recognize the contribution made by women to public progress.

SUBJECT OF CONTROVERSY

MORE THAN THAT, the granting of such an unprecedented privilege to the Australian nurse reminds us of the long and bitter controversy which was waged over her method of treating infantile paralysis, which was a distinct departure from hitherto recognized and orthodox methods of treatment.

Although she claimed success almost from the start and many grateful patients testified to the benefits they had derived from her treatment, her innovation met with strong opposition from a section of the medical profession, not only in Australia but elsewhere.

SIMILAR SITUATION

IN THAT, her case bears a resemblance to that of Sir Herbert Barker, the great English bone-setter whose manipulative methods aroused the bitter opposition of the British Medical Society for years, but who persisted in his practices until finally his methods were accepted and he was knighted in recognition of his services to suffering mankind.

It was from patients whose sufferings she had alleviated, and from parents of little children whose contorted and atrophied limbs she had helped to restore to a marked degree of natural function, that Sister Kenny received the encouragement which made her give up general nursing to dedicate herself to her new method.

GAVE DEMONSTRATIONS

EVER SINCE 1940, the Australian nurse has been visiting the United States from time to time, by invitation from medical men and others interested, to demonstrate her treatment. Apparently, she has satisfied them as to its efficacy in halting and curing the distressing effects of the dread disease.

And the action taken earlier this month by the U.S. Congress and President Truman can be considered as conferring the accolade of American official approval upon the great contribution made to the cause of human health and well-being by this undaunted exponent of the crusading spirit of Florence Nightingale.

BID FOUR-CARD SUITS UNDER A SINGLETON

A point in bidding that confuses many beginners is how they should handle three four-card suits or one five-card suit and two four-card suits. Well, there is a simple rule to follow, bid the suit under the singleton or a void. It is true that most players are taught to bid a five-card suit before a four-card suit. However, you must watch out that you do not make a bid which will force you to make a reverse bid on a weak suit later on.

Mrs. Helen Dinkelspiel of New York gives a good lesson in bidding and play in today's hand. She knew the problem was the spade suit in her partner's hand and she wanted to tell him the pattern of her hand early. Mrs. Dinkelspiel admitted that the four heart bid was questionable.

The opening lead of the jack of spades forced Mrs. Dinkelspiel (sitting South) to stop and count her tricks. She has two heart tricks and she should be able to make two diamond and two club tricks, at least, which are six tricks. She can trump three spades and possibly a diamond, which will give her her contract. She trumped the opening lead with the three of hearts, led a small club to dummy's queen, and returned the four of diamonds. East won this trick with the ace and returned the deuce of clubs. Declarer won with the king and immediately cashed the king of diamonds.

Then she led the queen of diamonds. West refused to ruff, discarding a club. The jack of diamonds was led and West discarded a spade. The six of

School Janitors' Wages Keep Conciliators Busy

Employers' Employees' Representatives Vie With Varying Pay Rates In Province

Wage discussion occupied most of Wednesday's sitting of the conciliation board attempting to bring about a settlement between the Greater Victoria School Board and the School Board Employees' Association on a new union working agreement.

The proposed agreement covers wages and working conditions of janitors and other maintenance workers.

The employees' association is asking for a 20 per cent increase in pay for engineer-janitors and a 15 per cent increase in pay for janitor-sweepers.

Existing rates for janitors range from $135 to $205 a month. At Wednesday's arbitration meeting, W. H. M. Haldane, counsel for the school board, produced wage scales for janitors in many interior points where wage rates are lower than here. Officers of the employees' association countered with prevailing rates in Greater Vancouver, which are higher than here.

Next sitting of the conciliation board will be Monday. Chairman of the conciliation board is H. K. Bate, city lawyer. Serving with him are W. P. Paine, nominee of the school board, and T. Gooderham, nominee of the employees.

New Beacon Schedule

The Department of Transport at Ottawa advises mariners of a change in operating schedule of the radio beacon at Cape St. James, Queen Charlotte Islands.

The beacon, located at lat. N. 51 degrees 56 minutes 10 seconds, long. W. 131 degrees 52 seconds, will operate continuously on 290 kilocycles, transmitting its characteristic for three periods of one minute, separated by silent intervals of two minutes.

Call sign of the station is VAM, characteristic CCCC.

'Keep Building Out Of Our Front Yard'

Pandora Avenue Residents Fight To Keep Greensward Intact

Forty-five property owners on Pandora Avenue and nearby streets have added their voice to the storm of protest over the proposal to construct a warehousing building on Pandora Avenue Green.

In a petition addressed to the mayor and City Council, received at City Hall today, they claim the area is a residential district and not suitable for such a structure.

"We feel there is available in the city much property better suited to a building of this description," the petitioners claim. "Now that it really gives our district a neat appearance certain individuals wish to spoil it with an office building."

"No doubt the arguments presented by Miss Sara Spencer and Jack Barracough have merit, but we wonder how they would react to a warehousing building that may eventually develop into headquarters for the city's health and welfare departments and a day nursery for the children of working parents, constructed in their front yard, so to speak."

"We don't think they would appreciate it any more than we do."

Bigger Revenue Wanted From B.C. Lumber, Mines

The province should take more revenue from the lumbering and mining industries, it was claimed in the Legislature Wednesday by the C.C.F. Cranbrook member, Leo T. Nimsick.

The people were receiving little from the depletion of these resources, he said, claiming government revenue from $360,000, 000 lumber production was only $6,963,000, and from $152,000,000 mining production, $206,817.

"In place of taxing meals, clothing and other necessities as a means of collecting revenue, we should get a greater income from mining and lumbering," the member stated.

"The government is giving away our mineral resources for a few pieces of silver," he added.

Industries were not paying a fair share of school taxes in relation to what the people were paying, Mr. Nimsick continued.

He referred in particular to the mining town of Kimberley where the school tax was 50 mills of the 69 general rate mainly because the mines of the district were not included within the city limits.

Mr. Nimsick called for payment to Indians of the provincial share of old age pensions.

Total production from island collieries during the first month this year was 42,459 short tons. In January, 1949, output measured 47,616 short tons.

Coal production throughout the whole province last month was 104,188 tons, compared with 136,222 tons during the same time last year.

Relay Mail Boxes Introduced Here

The Post Office this week is placing throughout Greater Victoria 100 relay mail boxes.

The boxes are green in color and are intended to store such heavy articles of mail as papers and magazines until the postman is able to deliver them.

The boxes are a safeguard, a postal official explained today. Formerly bundles of heavy mail were left on porches or at corner stores. The Post Office hopes the public will soon familiarize themselves with the boxes. Shortly after the first boxes were placed Wednesday, a number of persons complaining the new letter boxes didn't have a slot and what was the matter with the Post Office for not checking them.

Vets' Welfare Changing To Peace Status

Re-organization of the Veterans' Welfare Services Branch, of the Department of Veterans Affairs was described today by D.V.A. district administrator W. G. H. Roaf as another natural step in the department's transition from post-war to peace-time operation.

"V.W.S. now embraces all the functions of the old rehabilitation branch as well as those of the war veterans allowance, investigation and social service sections," Mr. Roaf stated. "Functionally, it has been divided into three major divisions—general services, social service and administration—to deal with the welfare problems of ex-servicemen."

At the Victoria sub-district office, V.W.S. is headed by M. Bell-Irving, with L. A. Rees and J. G. McKay in charge of general services and administration, respectively.

Second Vote To Test House In Manitoba

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Manitoba's Coalition government faced its second non-confidence motion of the current Legislature today after defeat of a C.C.F. motion of confidence move by a vote of 44 to 8.

George Renouf (Ind. P.C. Swan River), leader of the Independent Coalition group, made the second non-confidence motion Wednesday immediately after the C.C.F. move had been defeated.

The motion expressed regret that the government saw fit to continue the Coalition form of government in peacetime, contrary to parliamentary traditions.

The C.C.F. motion, moved by Opposition Leader E. A. Hanson, had deplored the government's alleged failure to cope with the problems of housing, unemployment, rent controls and markets for agricultural products. It was supported only by the seven-man C.C.F. group, and William Kardash, the lone Labor Progressive Party member of the House.

Says Modern Education Getting Out Of Control

Claims Great Mass Of People Benefitting While Contributing Little Toward Costs

Modernization of the educational system is getting out of hand in British Columbia, it was charged in the Legislature Wednesday by Sydney Smith, new Coalition member for Kamloops.

Head was dealing with school finances, claiming a great mass of the people are benefitting most while making little contribution toward costs.

Landowners, he said, were called on to pay a direct educational tax which was out of all proportion.

Mr. Smith called for a determined effort on the part of the government to revise school costs and redistribute school taxes.

"The present situation just cannot go on," he declared.

There had been commendable advances in the field of education, the Kamloops member stated.

These advances encouraged the production of experts or specialists.

"With this new tendency I have no complaint," he continued. "But I am disturbed with the fact that as education becomes more technical and specialized, it has been left more and more in the hands of professionals with less and less interest on the part of the public."

"And the disinterested public, to a great extent, embraces the parents and taxpayers."

Says U.S. About Ready For New Loan To Tito

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is reported about ready to grant an emergency loan to Yugoslavia. The idea is to keep the Yugoslav economy from being strangled by a trade boycott led by Russia.

American officials said the loan—which would be second by the U.S. to Marshal Tito since he broke with Moscow—would be relatively small. It might be $10,000,000 or $15,000,000, to be used for the purchase of U.S. cotton, petroleum and other urgently needed raw materials.

They said that amount still would be extremely helpful to Yugoslavia in its present economic plight.

Confidential reports to the State Department indicate there is danger of unemployment in Yugoslavia textile mills and other industries unless Tito gets financial help in a hurry.

The Russian-led trade boycott has cut off more than 50 per cent of Yugoslavia's trade with outside countries. These reports have spurred consideration of a new loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank.

The State Department believes it is essential to keep Tito in power as a symbol of resistance to Moscow domination.

The first American government loan to Tito was granted last fall, for $20,000,000.

STRIKING INDIVIDUALISM

Arts Centre Show Gives Visitors New Viewpoint

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

There is certainly something to be said for a natural and free development of talent, so far as the art of the painter goes. At the Arts Centre on Broughton Street, this week, a striking individualism is exemplified in the work of a group of western Ontario artists, several of whom, it is to be noted, are mainly self-taught.

Oils, watercolor and gouache make up the display and in touring the gallery one is impressed with the sensation of seeing and understanding through eyes and from a viewpoint entirely outside one's own. Perhaps it is because the departures from convention are so definite without being extreme, the styles so varied and personal, that one is induced to regard them so much more subjectively than objectively.

UNQUESTIONABLY PLEASING

Nothing in the exhibit is without interest. There is not one picture lacking in some admirable qualities. There are those who will not agree with distorted perspectives or the value of certain subject-matter, but color and tonal masses, elements of design and handling of medium is unquestionably pleasing. "Corner Shop," by George Eitel, for instance, and one vivid still life in which light fairly pulsates, are examples.

H. V. Vick's "First Snow" is completely satisfying as to composition and treatment, exquisite in color values and balance. A watercolor revealing superb draftsmanship will be found in "Back Alley," by H. W. Smith. Then there is Herb Arliss' wild wet "Stormy Weather," using a fascinating wash technique and a gouache by S. J. Versteeg involving a simplicity of treatment reminiscent of a wood-block print.

Strongest oil in the show is Clare Bice's "Northern Landscape," a thing of sullen beauty and symmetry. Most interesting portrait is that of a negro lad, "Young Boy," by Irene Taylor. Here, aside from the skillful use of color and light one is aware of the pulse of life, the vibrations of a human personality.

Union Case Reserved By Appeal Court

Appeal Court Wednesday reserved judgment in the appeal of two union officials of the Vancouver Marine Workers' and Boilermakers' Industrial Local No. 1, against an order of Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker committing them to Oakalla prison for contempt of court.

The appellants are W. L. White and W. A. Stewart, president and secretary-treasurer of the union, who were committed to jail by the Supreme Court judge for refusing to issue Myron Kuzych, welder, with a membership card in the Marine Workers' Union.

The commitment followed a Supreme Court judgment awarding Kuzych $5,000 damages for wrongful expulsion and restraining the union from expelling the member. Kuzych was subsequently refused readmittance into the union and took legal proceedings against the two union officials.

A. W. Johnson, Kuzych's lawyer, claimed both White and Stewart conducted themselves so as to obstruct his client's admission into the union. It was alleged that the two men aided and abetted others in the union to defy the terms of the court judgment by refusing to treat Kuzych as a member of the organization.

J. L. Farris, counsel for the appellants, argued that at the time the judgment was made, the union was no longer in existence and had amalgamated with two other unions. He claimed that when Kuzych applied for membership, "the new union, by an overwhelming vote, refused to admit him as a member."

Earnings Short Of Dividend Goal

B.C. Telephone Co. Took $397,857 From 1949 Surplus, Says Report

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Telephone Company failed by $397,857 to earn its dividend requirements in 1949, Gordon Farrell, president, stated today in his annual report. "The rates presently in effect are not sufficient to produce the revenue required to meet the cost of furnishing adequate telephone service," he said.

The amount by which the dividend requirements fell short was provided from surplus.

The company's revenue rose from $12,158,896 in 1948 to $13,078,017 in 1949, an increase of $919,121. But the total expenses rose from $11,364,826 in 1948 to $12,499,624 in 1949, an increase of $1,134,798.

The company has an application before the Board of Transport Commissioners asking for increased exchange rates, but the judgment of the board has not yet been announced.

NEW EQUIPMENT

"The company is faced with further large capital expenditures to provide the buildings, plant and equipment to meet service demands and it cannot obtain until earnings are sufficient to attract the necessary capital," said Mr. Farrell. "The last general rate increase was in 1921."

The net profit before payment of dividends fell from $794,069 in 1942 to $578,392 in 1949. Owing to the issuing of common and preferred stock during 1948, the dividend requirements rose from $826,197 in 1942 to $976,250 in 1949. The net profit for the last year fell by $397,857 to cover dividend requirements, while in 1948 the figure fell only $32,128 short of doing so.

After payment of dividends, the earned surplus at the end of 1949 stood at $520,312 as compared with $800,170 at the end of 1948. During 1949, the sum of $100,000 was transferred to surplus from the contingent reserve, and $18,000 was added by income tax adjustment.

The value of land, buildings, plant and equipment owned by the company at the end of 1949 stood at $55,206,282 as against $49,392,761 at the end of 1948.

The report, which is the 58th issued by the company, will be submitted to the annual meeting March 9.

'Love-Crazed' Peasant Holds Village At Bay

FILOTTRANO, Italy (Reuter)—A 23-year-old peasant today held this entire village in a terror siege after he had killed his fiancée and two of her neighbors and wounded 23 other persons in five hours of wild shooting.

Villagers of this community in mid-Italy on the Adriatic coast barricaded themselves in their houses. Truckloads of police from nearby Ancona poured in to hunt the maniacal Cetulio Lillini, believed to be hiding in woodland on the outskirts of this village of 10,000.

The whole village scene of bitter fighting during the war, again looked like a battleground. Red Cross ambulances carrying away the dead and dying passed carabinieri reinforcements moving up through the shattered streets to take up positions around the woods.

Lillini kept the inhabitants in a state of terror since Tuesday night when he burst into the house of his fiancée, 17-year-old Maria Mammoni. He fired six shots into her at close range and then rushed out into the street, firing wildly.

NEIGHBORS SLAIN

Two neighbors—43-year-old Aurelio Angeletti, father of six children, and Gino Strappini—tried to stop him.

Lillini shot them dead.

He fired two more shots at Maria's mother and seven-year-old brother, Franco, as they fled from the house in panic.

Both fell, severely wounded. Throughout the night, Lillini roamed the streets shooting at anyone who ventured out of doors or who plucked up enough courage to peer through the shutters of a house.

Three police tried to arrest him. He picked them off one by one and left them lying in the ditch, gravely wounded.

Early this morning he plastered up a crude manifesto in the village street declaring: "I am forced to do this. I am sorry if the innocent suffer, but I can't help it."

Then there was silence. This afternoon steel-helmeted police were moving cautiously towards the woods in battle formation.

Navy May Move Main Depot To Esquimalt Base

(Special To The Times)

OTTAWA—Transfer of H.M.C. Ordnance School from Halifax to Victoria is expected to be completed in the near future. The objective of functioning completely by the spring months. This involves a switch of the main ordnance school of the R.C.N. from the Atlantic to the Pacific seaboard.

Halifax will continue to be an ordnance training centre but in a lesser local capacity.

Neither a large move of personnel nor of equipment will be required to effect the exchange but some instructors necessarily will be transferred to Victoria, where existing buildings and facilities are expected to be ample to accommodate any changes resulting.

Challenge To Youth

ACCORDING TO STATISTICS IN possession of the Department of Trade and Industry the population of British Columbia is now 1,114,000. The last decennial census, taken in 1941, credited this province with 817,861. Thus we have an increase in less than a decade of better than 296,000.

Here is a gain which is only partially explained by mere figures. The growth of our population in such a relatively short space of time is remarkable in more ways than one. Admittedly, it means that the cost of British Columbia's social services under innumerable heads has increased commensurately, and will continue to increase from year to year until the development of our natural resources—reflected, of course, by new production—keeps pace.

Nor should increased production be very difficult to achieve. Many of our new citizens have come to this highly-favored part of the Dominion because they realize the opportunities that await them. And it will never be seriously argued that newcomers with initiative and imagination will look in vain for something profitable to do. After all, British Columbia is the last great frontier on this North American continent—a vast territory beckoning to those who are not afraid of hard work. Among new acquisitions to population will be the proverbial square pegs who will try to fit themselves into round holes; but these will form only a conspicuous minority. Eventually, even they will find their particular niches and realize that there is no short or easy way to a modest competence, let alone a fortune.

What is not generally understood, moreover, is the impressive fact that British Columbia is a province with an area of no fewer than 366,255 square miles, populated—as already noted—by about one-sixth the number of citizens who move and have their being in the metropolis astride the historic Thames. Surely this in itself is a challenge to the rising generation. Let it be said, therefore, that the youth of this free and thriving land of ours will not let their native or adopted country down.

We Must Spread The Word

IN TELLING THE HOUSE OF COMMONS that "in my opinion there is no more important question in the world today" than the advance of Communism in Asia, External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson echoed what other western statesmen have been saying in recent weeks. But the Canadian official's comment comes with all the more emphasis in that he has just completed a visit to that part of the globe which has been under discussion. As a result of his first-hand observations there, Mr. Pearson told the Members of Parliament yesterday that "Chinese and Russian Communism may spill over into southeast Asia and, indeed, into the Near East."

What that would mean to the democratic nations of the world should be obvious to every follower of the day-to-day news. The earth would have become a little smaller for the free countries that wish to trade and have amicable relationships with their neighbors. Our orbit of friendliness and safety would have become that much tighter. A system of government, a way of life that is foreign to every instinct of the freedom-loving man, would have spread its influence that much farther from the Kremlin source.

China has fallen to Communism. The struggle today is in the states bordering that country on the south—Indonesia, Burma, India, that great new republic, has not yet been a major objective of Moscow planning, but her position will be perilous if the rest of southeastern Asia falls. The traditional political weapon of India has been Gandhi's pacifism—the passive resistance of the mass. It had considerable effect when used in quarrels with a benevolent power like Britain. At the least it carried a moral weight that had influence in the conference chamber. But where would such tactics get in attempting to cope with a force like Communism? The butcher and the waiting ox provide the most appropriate metaphor.

"No one can be certain what will happen," Mr. Pearson told the Commons. But that the West must take some action is obvious. The encroachment of the Communist ideology was met and halted in Europe. The Marshall Plan, the Truman Doctrine, the various defensive military pacts all contributed to that result. But the growth of a belief in the minds of the common people of the threatened countries that the clamorous efforts of unruly minorities should not be allowed to upset the course of peaceful economic progress made the victory more certain.

To inculcate a similar conviction in the minds of the peoples of southeastern Asia must be the task of the west. It may be that they have not yet reached a stage of political adulthood in which their own best interests are evident to them. But the educational attempt must be made. The dangers of totalitarianism must be advertised.

Say It And Sit Down

IT IS GOOD TO LEARN THAT IT IS the intention of the Coalition administration to arrange for Minister of Finance Anscombe to introduce the budget in the early part of next week. In view of the fact that the pronouncement of the guardian of the provincial till will involve a record expenditure it is fitting that the elected representatives of the people should have ample opportunity and time to study its contents.

For the reason that the business of the first session of the new Legislature—with no election in prospect and no special need for carefully-developed political strategy—is already more advanced than usual, it is to be hoped that speech-makers will try to remember that great leaders such as those who are awaiting the result of today's battle of the ballots in Great Britain can usually say all they desire to say in about half an hour. After all, the private member with no ministerial responsibility in the local Legislature should be able to say what he feels if necessary to say in as short a time as Mr. Churchill, Mr. Attlee, or Mr. Davies.

We mention this point, as we have done year after year—long before many of the members of the new House had received their political baptism—because sound argument is so much more useful and informative than platitudinous rhetoric. And it demands the expenditure of so much less valuable legislative time.

Speaking of Peanuts

THE QUESTION, "WHICH IS MORE important, the food or the entertainment?" becomes prominent again as a result of the furore caused by a San Francisco baseball club president's decision to ban the sale of peanuts at baseball games in his stadium. The action was taken when the manager realized that it cost him $20,000 a year to clean up the shells and refuse after fans had munched their way to victory or defeat at each contest. But the outcry from press and public that arose when it seemed as though the peanuts were to be banished from the games quickly convinced the stadium boss that he had misjudged his public. He was attacked with as much fury as though he had retained the peanuts and banned the games. All he can hope for now is to sell enough nuts to pay for cleaning up the shells. Vox populi, heavily scented with the aroma of peanuts, has triumphed in one more contest.

In Tory Clothing

By CASSANDRA, in the London Daily Mirror

AT DUNKIRK, the Germans captured, among the great masses of military equipment abandoned by our troops 60,000 suits of British battledress.

Some of this clothing turned up, I think, first of all in North Africa. There, gentlemen, armed with Schmeisser machine-pistols and blessed with names like Zuhle, Gekker, Sprunende and Meinhardt, suddenly—appeared dressed in khaki and shot a lot of daylight into Thomas Atkins before he got the tricky idea.

TYPICAL TACTICS

It was denounced as a typical piece of Hunnishness—but it was not really very different from the thinking behind the "Q" ship in the last war or the more popular technique of the booby trap. Anyway we took the tip and were soon planning similar and often better devilment ourselves.

We also developed the propaganda angle and invented the idea of Nazi paratroopers swinging down from the skies dressed as nuns. There is no evidence at all that the Germans ever did this, but the revulsion of the nation at this sacrilegious idea served as a brisk tonic when the whole nation was expecting Hitler to cross the English Channel.

War breeds that sort of cuteness. Politics and general elections also encourage the art of deception.

The present case of the National Liberals, an offshoot of the Liberal Party, is a classic example.

There are 13 of them. They are about as solidly encamped in the Conservative ranks as Sir Waldron Smithers is.

They act Tory. They think Tory. And they vote Tory.

Yet they wear Liberal battledress.

DANGEROUS BUSINESS

Wearing other people's uniforms is a dangerous business. Not only have you got to fool the enemy, but you have got to make sure that your own friends don't shoot you when you return to your lines. The National Liberals might remember that when they go back to the Conservative trenches.

Who's Kidding Whom?

As Our Readers See It

TRIBUTE TO JUDGE

I have been wondering for a long time when someone would have something to say about the tactics of some members of the City Police Force. It has finally come from no less a gentleman than Mr. Justice Macfarlane; and his Lordship's remarks are heartily welcomed by many citizens who have themselves felt like protesting, but have refrained from doing so in the belief that they would be "for it" from then on.

It is not many years ago that visitors to Victoria commented on the civility and helpfulness of our force and local residents would heartily concur and feel proud of a fine body of men. Such is definitely not the case now. The number of complaints of which Mr. Harrison speaks must be small by comparison with the many verbal remarks that I have heard in various circles in the district.

I have heard many Oak Bay residents state that the prospect of coming under city police jurisdiction would be quite sufficient alone to make them fight the "inevitable amalgamation."

DISGUSTED.

SAYS A POLICEMAN

I have studied carefully the findings of the learned Mr. Justice Macfarlane, and his attack on police officers in the execution of their duty.

I would like to draw the attention of the public to the fact that police officers do not make the laws, but are paid public servants, having taken the oath to enforce them, be they in the mind of the police officer good or bad.

When an officer charges a person under section 57 of the Motor Vehicle Act, every ingredient of the wording of the charge must be confirmed with evidence to support it, otherwise the Magistrate will dismiss the charge.

A person who collides with a parked car must show some degree of carelessness unless a mechanical defect is proven. This same person could hardly be charged under the Criminal Code of Canada with dangerous driving, unless the said vehicle was followed for some distance and the driver proven to have driven for that distance in a dangerous manner, finally colliding with the said parked car.

In the past, officers have preferred charges against persons and will continue to do so in the future.

When it comes to the point of having to close my eyes to an infraction of the law, merely because the offender is of rank or party, then will be the time to hand in my resignation to my superiors who entrusted me with the oath I took when joining the force.

GET THE BEST

With reference to the appointment of a city manager, I would like to point out that, similar to the selection of a chief of police, the qualifications of our own city civil servants should first be considered thoroughly and impartially before looking away from home for a qualified man.

To be a thoroughly efficient city manager one should have of necessity a thorough knowledge of the workings of all departments, with the ability to regulate the duties and conduct of the various staffs concerned.

OUR "FURRY" FOLK

How long will the public remain apathetic to the sufferings to which we condemn our wild animals, fur-bearing and predatory? One of our members relates that on a trip up north last year she came across two live coyotes caught by paws crushed in the steel traps, lying in the hot sun. She says that, although told they do more harm than good, her heart went out to them when she saw the agonized look in their eyes.

On asking how long they would be left in such a condition, she was told, "for about two days" until the government official completed his line of traps. The same suffering, often for longer periods, is endured by fur-bearing animals also, and that such cruelty still exists in a so-called Christian country is evidence that we are evading our responsibility.

The Association for Protection of Fur-bearing Animals is trying to secure a merciful death for our wild animals, and provides an opportunity for those who wish to help abolish the steel trap. The responsibility is ours, and the remedy lies in our hands.

An Avenue Still Open

By JOSEPH LISTER RUTLEDGE

ONE of the anomalies of China's tremendous swing to communism is that it began as a nationalistic movement, a zealous effort to rid the country of foreign influences and to decide its own destinies. So, it was hoped, the memory of the abortive Boxer rebellion of 50 years ago would be wiped out.

Strangely enough, to achieve this end of driving western forces from China and ending their virtual control of matters both political and economic, China has teamed up with much more aggressive and certainly more sinister forces.

Yet the Chinese Communists seem prepared to permit the whole of the country's 450,000,000 people to become virtual subjects of a foreign power, and to surrender vast areas, which once were Chinese, to Russian control.

Russian is an unknown tongue in China. As the New York Times points out, a quarter-century ago, when the Russian Communists sent Michael Borodin as their representative in China, he had to deal with the Chinese in English, the only language that both understood. It is no less true today. English has been the language of trade in China for generations past.

Therefore the West, which has lost so much influence in China, still has an avenue of approach. She is not shut off by an impenetrable "iron curtain," beyond which her voice may not reach. There is the remaining hope that the intelligent minds of China that can still be reached in a tongue they understand may be a factor in restoring a friendly relationship between China and the West.

Lenin Line

By "MAXIM" From London
("Maxim" is the pen-name of an authority on British Communist affairs)

THE NOMINATION of 100 Communist candidates in the general election may have misled people abroad who have only a slight acquaintance with the present state of British politics. In the 1945 election the Communists contested only 21 seats out of a total of 640, and of their 21 candidates 12 forfeited their deposits (i.e. failed to secure one-eighth of the total number of votes cast in their constituency. Of every 250 votes cast in 1945, the Communists secured only one.

THE FACT that the Communist Party nominated nearly five times as many candidates as it did in 1945 might suggest that its strength and influence have increased in the same proportion in the last five years. This is not so. The membership of the party, now around 42,000, is slightly lower than its peak figure during the wartime years of public admiration for the Red Army. The party's influence, though still important in certain industries and trade unions, has declined, largely as a result of Russian behavior abroad.

COMMUNISTS do not believe in parliamentary democracy. They take part in parliamentary elections because to refuse to do so would be to neglect a great opportunity of taking their propaganda into factories and mines, back streets and villages at a moment when public attention is focused on politics as at no other time. They do so, also, because, as Lenin argued 30 years ago, so long as even a minority of the working class still believes in parliamentary methods, "it undoubtedly follows that parliamentarism . . . is not yet politically obsolete, that participation in parliamentary elections and in the struggle in parliament is obligatory for the party."

THE ATTITUDE of the Communist Party today may seem inconsistent with the attitude they adopted in 1945. From their own standpoint, it is a perfectly logical development of their policy both as it affects domestic issues and as it is affected by the supreme Communist duty of defending at all costs the interests of the "Socialist Fatherland," Russia. Whereas in 1945 there appeared to be good grounds for expecting that a Labor government would tend to be more sympathetic to the foreign policy of Russia than the Conservatives would be, and that Labor would be more susceptible to working-class pressure on this issue, today the Communists have clearly decided that in this respect Labor is "reactionary" as the Tories.

IN 1945 THESE considerations of Russia's needs reinforced the Communist view that in domestic politics the Conservatives were the first and main enemy, and that until the working class had been convinced of the need to defeat them it was futile to proceed to the next "lesson"—the inadequacy of their Labor Party opponents. It is not surprising, therefore, that in 1945 the Communists not only gave considerable support to Labor candidates, but refrained from putting up any candidates in opposition to the leading members of the Labor Party.

Today, on the other hand, the need to win public support for a foreign policy directly contrary to that of both the Labor and Conservative parties is such that the Communists felt compelled to drive home this second lesson with all the vigor at their command. This explains the fact that, in the election, no fewer than 16 Labor ministers were confronted with Communist opponents, who fought them because these particular ministers were the personal representatives of the Labor Party in the fields of foreign policy, home affairs, finance, industrial relations, transport, the steel industry, agriculture and the colonies.

TWO FURTHER aspects of the Communist campaign fitted into the pattern. With the solitary exception of Mr. Churchill, who was opposed as a symbol of the main enemy—capitalism—no leading Conservative was opposed by a Communist candidate. Secondly, Lenin's advice to the British Communists that "in all constituencies where we have no candidates (we would) urge the electors to vote for the Labor candidate against the bourgeois candidate" was followed. Not that the Communists were sincere in such support of Labor candidates; on the contrary, they supported them, in another phrase of Lenin's, "in the same way as a rope supports one who is hanging," i.e. in order that the process of "educating the masses" might be taken a step further and that, through dissatisfaction with the results of Labor rule, the way might be cleared for the advance of the Communist Party as the true champion of the working class.

THE COMMUNISTS, therefore, aimed at the return of a Labor government in which the balance of power had shifted towards the left. This shifting of the balance of power was to be achieved by the defeat of most of the key ministers and the election of a small number of Communists and fellow-travellers, who would form the nucleus within Parliament of an alternative leadership for the mass of Labor M.P.s.

But more important than any electoral success, the Communists aimed to profit from the campaign by tightening their grip on the trade unions, Co-operative guilds, pits, docks, factories and farms; by carrying their propaganda into places which they have hitherto failed to reach; by encouraging workers to make demands which, if not, would weaken both the employing class and the Labor Party (and, in the long run, the workers themselves); and by recruiting new members into the Communist ranks.

THIS IS THE fateful day on which Britain's voters are deciding whether the Socialist government shall be continued in power or whether the country shall return to the system of private enterprise under which the Empire reached its zenith.

It is possible that today's verdict may be irrevocable if Socialism again wins. If Socialism is returned to complete its program of nationalization and other Socialist economy it might be impossible to revert to capitalism even if the country wanted to. However, that is one of the impossibilities which only time can solve.

Actually it is doubtful whether many of the 34,000,000 voters are carrying their analyses quite that far. They are being governed largely by concrete results already achieved in the way of raising the standard of life and in the prospects for the immediate future.

On that basis one would expect them to be more influenced at this juncture by the tangible benefits of wholesale free medical treatment than by the early signs of the regimentation that is a necessary part of a welfare state.

The beginnings of regimentation (even in peacetime), are seen in the regulation that the worker must apply for employment through a government agency and take the position which the government thinks best for the country, irrespective of the individual's desire. He can appeal to his trade union if dissatisfied, but the government has the last word. Raw materials are apportioned to industry on a similar basis of national need.

The outcome seemed to rest with some 10 per cent of the voters, made up largely of women who hadn't yet declared their intentions. This 10 per cent may hold the fate of the election in their hands.

It should be news to no one that 1950 puts competition back into business; that salesmen who, for a decade, haven't had to do much more than go through the motions, now have to get their socks pulled up tight and high.

Canadian Coach Tells 'Y' Meeting Of Wins At Games

Humber Describes Salmon's Success In 110-Yard Swim

First-hand information of the success of Victoria's Peter Salmon and Bill Parnell, Vancouver, winners of the 110-yard freestyle swimming and one mile track events, respectively, in the recent British Empire Games at Auckland, New Zealand, was related to members of the Y.M.C.A. Wednesday night by Bruce Humber, coach of the Canadian team.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the "Y, Mr. Humber told of many interesting highlights and events that took place during his excursion "down under" with the Canadian entry in the games.

Relating to Salmon's swimming event, Mr. Humber stated it was the "second greatest thrill of the trip." The race was staged at night and the tension even before the actual competition began was "terrific."

"Peter got away to a good start and was third in the first lap. However, a good turn gave him a commanding position on the return, and I think it was through this turn that he captured the event. Coming down the stretch, he was one and a half yards in front, but his nearest opponent closed the gap considerably at the end," the speaker said.

SIT THROUGH RAIN

The mile event was staged on the last day of the games, and throughout the entire day it rained "like I had never seen it rain before." The raindrops were as big as walnuts, he said. However, not one of the 40,000 spectators stirred from their seats during the entire day's activities.

Mr. Humber said he felt a little sick when 10 minutes before the event, Parnell strolled up and said, "Coach, I've got a stitch."

"Bill was up against a British entrant who did the mile in 4:10—a feat which speaks for itself—but he came through with flying colors to capture the race. Coming down the stretch, Parnell suddenly broke into the lead about 30 yards from the tape and held on to capture the honor."

The speaker said he particularly noticed that the organization of the games was extremely similar to that of the Y.M.C.A. Friendliness was the keynote throughout the entire competition, he said.

"The sportsmanship displayed there was more evident than anywhere I had ever been before," he noted.

FIRST TO ARRIVE

The Canadian team was the first contingent to arrive in Auckland, Mr. Humber said. The reception was magnificent. Over 10,000 persons were at the dock to meet the Aorangi.

After signing hundreds of autographs, the group went by bus to Ardmore College, 23 miles from the city. This was the housing grounds for the Games competitors, he said.

The speaker said the food was good, and they could get anything they wanted. The training facilities were also of the best.

In the opening day parade under perfect weather conditions, the Canadian team was second to the Australians in the parade, he said.

In conclusion, Mr. Humber stressed the need for a wider national interest in the track and swimming competitions in preparation for the 1952 Olympic Games. Australia and New Zealand were going all-out in their efforts to put the games on a top-rate basis, he said.

The meeting voted the same slate of directors for another three-year term on the Y.M.C.A. board.

Chairman Johnny V. Johnson and Mayor Percy E. George each voiced their appreciation of the fine work accomplished by the "Y" during 1949.

Regarding plans for the new building, Mr. Johnson announced that a drive to raise $750,000 would be started within the next few months. He said the figure was an approximate estimate of the cost of such a structure.

The financial report, read by Reeve Percy Gibbs of Oak Bay in the absence of treasurer Ernest Harrison, showed the total deficit well below the 1948 level. Deficit for 1949 was

When Vanier and another member of the Canadian legion in Prague were ordered out of the country Jan. 22, he told his blonde, attractive fiancée, Olga Vacova, he would do everything possible to get her to join him in Canada.

Work Dispute May Return Camps To City's Control

Operation of Gordon Head and Macaulay Camps will be returned to the City Council if it refuses use of city employees for electrical extensions and repairs done by them in the past.

A. Palmer, executive secretary of the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council of Greater Victoria, has written Mayor Percy George that he would have to make such a recommendation to the board of directors.

The question arose over electrical extensions and repair work for the camps.

Kenneth Reid, city electrical engineer, advised Mr. Palmer that, following complaint from the Victoria (B.C.) Electrical Association, the City Council's electric light and signal services committee agreed that no work of an electrical nature, which was not the direct responsibility of the city should be undertaken at the camps by the electrical department.

The committee felt such work should be carried out by public tender. The electrical association claimed that several practices of the city's electrical maintenance staff were unfair to Victoria business firms carrying on regular electrical contracting operations.

"All of our camps in which we have had to use your employees are under a lease by the City Council, and I am greatly disturbed that after a period of more than three years, it should not be construed that any work required done in the camps is not a responsibility of the city,"

Pearson Says Dominion Wants Peace With Japs

House Gets Report On Minister's Trip To Orient; Hears Of Match Trust Action

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada wants an early start on drafting of a peace treaty with Japan, with or without participation of Russia and China.

External Affairs Minister Pearson told the Commons yesterday the government would like to see the two Communist powers take part in drawing up the Japanese peace treaty.

But he asserted Canada would not tolerate dictation by China and Russia if they persisted in being difficult, the other countries should go ahead without them.

Speaking in the Throne Speech debate, Mr. Pearson gave the House a detailed review of his recent Far-East journey, which included the Colombo, Ceylon, conference of commonwealth countries on foreign affairs.

The Commons and the diplomatic gallery, both well-filled, listened with interest as Mr. Pearson discussed a 27,000-mile trip, most of it with Fisheries Minister Mayhew, through Asia. He described Asia as the current centre of gravity in international affairs.

The abbreviated Wednesday sitting—three hours instead of the usual six—also heard Donald Fleming (P.C.-Toronto-Eglinton) and Carl Stewart (L.-Yorkton, Sask.), take part in the Throne Speech debate.

At the outset, Justice Minister Garson told Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North Centre), that prosecution will be launched against an alleged combine and monopoly in the wooden match industry of Canada, headed by the Eddy Match Company of Pembroke, Ont.

For the third consecutive sitting the coal controversy cropped up. Transport Minister Chevier said his earlier statement that the Canadian National Railways had bought all the coal possible from Canadian mines in 1949 was not altogether correct.

During the question period, Prime Minister St. Laurent told Gordon Graydon (P.C.-Peel, Ont.), acting leader of the Opposition that Canada has received no intimation from the United States that exchange of atomic information between the two countries will be curtailed.

Veterans' Minister Gregg replied with terse "no" when Percy Wright (C.C.F.-Melford, Sask.) asked whether the federal government, in view of a Canadian Legion suggestion, would consider setting up a committee on veterans' affairs.

Mr. Stewart saying he hoped that Winston Churchill would win today's election in Britain, claimed Canada's overseas markets were lost not a result of any action by Canada but by British devaluation, a step Labor Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Stafford Cripps had vowed Britain would never take.

TELL STUDENTS TO END RAIDS

EDMONTON (CP)—President Robert Newton of the University of Alberta has warned that high spirited students will face expulsion in future for such offences as dormitory raids and kidnappings.

At a recent meeting between the deans' council and a committee from the Students' Union, faculty members told the students they must take action to curb and control the student body.

Dean R. M. Hardy said that at times there was "almost anarchy on the campus. There was no student government at all."

"There is a limit to the amount of high spirits that can be shown on the campus," he said.

New Canadians Due At Halifax Today

HALIFAX, N.S.—Seven hundred and thirty new Canadians are aboard the 9,000-ton Canadian Pacific motorship Beaverbrae, expected to dock here today.

Of the arrivals, over 450 are Dutch agricultural workers coming to Canada to settle on farms in Quebec, Ontario and the four western provinces.

The balance, totaling some 271 persons are coming to Canada under the sponsorship of the Canadian Christian Council. They will settle mostly in western Canada and Ontario, with a few in the province of Quebec.

Charge Reduced

VANCOUVER (CP)—George A. Mitchell, 36, was found guilty Wednesday of a reduced charge of reckless driving. Mitchell, involved in an accident Aug. 20 which resulted in the death of Shirley Taylor Beaton, 22, was remanded for sentence at the end of assizes.

100,000,000 Population Figure Suggested By Drew

CALGARY (CP)—George Drew, national leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, said Wednesday that 100,000,000 should be a figure kept in mind as Canada's future population.

Mr. Drew added, in an address to the Canadian Club, that he didn't want anyone to expect an early jump to that figure or that there are ships available to bring so many people to Canada. It was merely a target to shoot at.

Canada possessed material wealth in greater measure than any country with an equal population but the real test of its future strength, prosperity and happiness would be measured more by the initiative, vision, spirit and character of the Canadian people.

Mr. Drew said he considered it of "vital and critical importance" that there be in Canada "an increasing interest on the part of everyone in political affairs."

Asks Probe On Flood Damage

An immediate investigation to determine responsibility in the flooding of fields and roads from upland rivers jammed with logs was asked in the Legislature Wednesday by Andrew Whisker, Cln., Cowichan-Newcastle.

Courses of the rivers were being diverted in some cases by huge log jams, said Mr. Whisker, and "just whose responsibility this is must be decided."

The river beds were silting up and heavy gravel deposits were

GIRL DIES UNDER WHEELS

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A five-year-old New Westminster girl was killed under the wheels of a coal truck Wednesday. Dead is Shirley Messenger.

Police said she was playing in her yard when she ran into the path of a truck which was being backed up.

The driver was unaware of the presence of the girl.

being left to spoil much valuable land.

"If nothing is done to protect these fields, then there is another approach," Mr. Whisker said. "Can we allow the rivers to cut new channels which will also destroy roads and make necessary the construction of expensive bridges?"

Washday In N.W. Ruined By Smoke

NEW WESTMINSTER (BUP)—The Westminster paper mills here are in the doghouse as far as housewives are concerned.

The housewives say smoke from the mill makes their Monday wash look like something out of a chimney. And they've even written in protest to the city council.

Company officials blame a poor quality of oil used during the recent fuel shortage for the dirty smoke which is causing Monday headaches for Royal City housewives.

The company said it was returning to the use of sawdust in its mills.

Cause Of 'Little Man' Stressed In Members' Maiden Speeches

By LLOYD BAKER

There is more socialism in the Legislature than the weak ranks of the C.C.F. would indicate. In almost every speech that has been given so far by private members in debate on the Speech from the Throne the cause of the little man has been fought.

Nearly all have cited the plight of the native Indian who last year was given the franchise. Pleas have been made for more social assistance for the natives, for old age pensions and such.

The private members have gone further.

Don't let big business apply the squeeze-play on small operators in the various industries, the government has been asked.

Look after the small farmers, give them proper roads. Free all small pensioners from hospital insurance premium payments, but give them the service.

Don't saddle the taxpayer with a heavier load, but build him bridges and other public works improvements.

Assume more of the school costs to relieve the small landowner. And so it goes.

Cast a glance at the policy of the government, too. Look at the social services offered, the cost-of-living bonuses granted, the increases in pensions and allowances, the many protective walls that have been built around the little man.

Twenty years ago the present government would have been regarded as a radical socialist administration.

There was a bit of a squabble at adjournment Wednesday when the Saanich member, Arthur Ash, pulled a surprise move.

Scheduled as the last of five speakers of the sitting, Mr. Ash got to his feet shortly before 5 and moved adjournment on Throne Speech debate.

He wasn't going to be rushed in what he had to say, and adjourning the debate would mean he would be lead-off man in today's speech-making.

Arthur Ritchie, the member for Salmon Arm, took umbrage at the Saanich member's unexpected action. He had been lined up to speak first today. "I don't like this," he shouted. The C.C.F. supported him. The well-laid plans should be followed to a "T." But on a vote of the House they went astray, and Mr. Ash was victor.

Willard Ireland, the provincial librarian, wants his telephone to stop ringing. He visited the Press Gallery to say so.

Since doubt was raised in this corner last week on proper spelling of the name of the first governor, the bells have been ringing continually, says the librarian.

It's an "s" in the name of Sir Richard Blanshard, not a "c" and let's not have any more arguing.

The librarian admitted there were some historians who still made the mistake, but there is no doubt about it, use the "s." Perhaps Mr. Ireland was covering up for our city fathers who use the right and the wrong in signposts and sidewalk markers on the local street named after Sir Richard. Or was it Sir Robert?

Senior as well as junior Chambers of Commerce received pats on the back in the House Wednesday.

Low-Cost Expansion Of Hospital Space Sought

A new suggestion to relieve overcrowding in hospitals was made in the Legislature Wednesday by C. W. Morrow, Coalition member for North Okanagan.

Speaking on hospital insurance, Mr. Morrow said it might be possible in some hospitals to convert private rooms into semi-private rooms and semi-private sections into public wards.

"This would increase bed accommodation with little expense," the member offered.

Mr. Morrow said it should not be forgotten that Mr. John Q. Public, and he alone, must pay hospital insurance premiums. It would be inequitable to finance the scheme in any other way.

"I do not think a single member in this House wants the government to increase the 3 per cent sales tax to cover the premium," he said.

HEALTH INSURANCE

Mr. Morrow said he favored institution of health insurance on top of hospital insurance, but here again the public would have to pay for the service given.

The Vernon lawyer then called for quick action on the part of the government to find a solution to the school taxation problem confronting all areas.

Promise of the government to peg school taxes in rural areas at eight mills had been implemented, but only as far as maintenance was concerned, he claimed.

Capital expenditures had pushed school tax rates to at least 13 mills in most districts in the interior, he said. The city of Vernon had refused to accept the 1950 school budget and the time had arrived for something specific in the way of Victoria Daily Times THURSDAY, FEB. 23, 1950 7 assistance leading to a solution, later one. The same situation exists in many other places," he said Mr. Morrow. "Vernon's plight is not an isolated one."

Five-Year Road Program For Cowichan-Newcastle

Andrew Whisker, new Coalition member of Cowichan-Newcastle, took members of the Legislature on a rough ride over roads in his constituency when he gave his maiden speech in the House Wednesday.

After jogging to a stop, he asked for a four or five-year program of reconstruction "to give us the roads we must have."

This winter's weather had been the straw which broke the camel's back. Roads poorly built many years ago fell apart in the thaw and "we must start from scratch—a heart-breaking job."

His tour started in the north end of the riding. Need for construction of a loop road in the Yellow Point and Cedar district areas was stressed. About 20 miles of road repair and reconstruction would be satisfactory for the time being, he said.

Moving south to Ladysmith, Mr. Whisker said there was a small district south of the city where it was felt considerable tax payments to the provincial treasury entitled some special attention.

WANTS SIDEWALKS

"I would be happy with about one and a half miles of sidewalk construction here which would keep children off the new speedway which is nearing completion," the member said.

Traveling down to the Saltair district, two side roads were crying for repairs and widening, Mr. Whisker said.

A few miles further south to the Crofton area there was need for improvements to encourage industry into "that wide and beautiful harbor."

The City of Duncan was next on the trip. Mr. Whisker passed by Lake Cowichan because "all I ask for there is the rebuilding of the 10 miles to Youbou and building of another 10-mile road to the Cayuse logging camp where over 100 families are living."

DUNCAN ROADS

At Duncan about five miles of hard-surface roads were needed south of the city to serve many fine homes which had been built there, the member said.

Down to the southernmost section of the riding there were hundreds of farms and small holdings needing road attention. The thoroughfares were too narrow and ditches too close and too deep.

"We need a continuing program of about five miles of good permanent hard-surfacing a year to start this district on the way to recovery," the member stated. "I am speaking of our minimum requirements, of course," he added.

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

LOT of the professional footballer in England will be a lot improved if the present aims of the players are ever realized. Working through their union the players seek to abolish the ceiling on wages. It wants payment of benefit money to be compulsory and not a matter in which the club has the final word. And it demands that any benefit due to a player shall be automatically paid to him on transfer at the full rate of £150 a year for every year's service he has put in.

ONE might ask how does this affect the transfer system, with its skyrocketing finance and its buying and selling of players, as they allege "like cattle on the hoof?" The answer is: The contract. "Give us," say the players, "a contract for one year or longer and at the end of it let us go free as in every other trade and profession to sell our services to the highest bidder."

This, they declare, would prevent the free circulation of talent since all transfers would be a matter of genuine agreement between the footballer and his club. It would end two evils said to exist, but proof of which is never forthcoming—the under-the-counter payment and the actual or implied threat.

A PLAYER cannot be transferred against his will. He can be "encouraged" to move by a wad of notes that never appears in the accounts. Or frightened into moving by the delicate hint that his career with the club "is bound to suffer" if he insists on staying. He may find himself on the open-to-transfer list with an inflated price on his head, unwanted by his own club and unable to get a job with another. Of course he can always appeal to the league. But the players' union doesn't believe that is any safeguard.

"Give us our freedom," cry the players, "and transfer fees will revert to realistic levels instead of soaring to the sky, to the game's disadvantage."

PLAYERS point out that in the last four years £300,000 has been paid in transfer fees to Scotland and Ireland and not one penny of it comes back to English football in extra emoluments for players or spectators. The league replies that the game is all the richer for the influx of the Scots and Irish.

IT IS interesting to reckon up what a star player can earn. In addition to his maximum salary of £12 in the playing season and £10 in the summer the bonus system must be taken into account. A club may pay £2 for a win and £1 for a draw in all league matches, with a nice little dividend in the shape of talent money for the four clubs finishing at the top of the table. There is a graduated scale for success in the cup play. A man chosen to play in an international match picks up another £20.

Then there is the benefit a player may receive. Note that word "may"—there is no "must" about it. It has been raised from £650 to £750. He gets it as a reward for five years' service. When his career ends a player may draw a lump sum equal to one-tenth of his wages.

CHANCES of the footballers to break the present contract system are slight in our opinion. It operates in much the same manner as baseball and hockey contracts on this continent. The football league directors argue that under the free transfer the wealthiest clubs would corner all the best players. "What chance would anyone have of getting a settled team?" they ask. "It would unbalance the league and destroy the sense of common interest."

The present system, says the league, has stood the test of time and safeguards players as a whole as well as the clubs. All in all it is an interesting fight and the final outcome is anybody's guess.

Regina Keeps Ice Playoff Hopes Alive

REGINA (CP)—On the brink of elimination from Western Canada Senior Hockey League playoff contention, Regina Capitals last night kept their hopes alive with an impressive 6 to 3 triumph over Edmonton Flyers, schedule winners.

Caps now are within two points of the third-place Saskatoon Quakers, who hold the last playoff berth. The Reginas have two games left to play, while Quakers have five.

Diminutive Toby Brown, 135 pounds of lightning on skates, pumped home three goals to lead the Regina attack. Other Cap counters came from the sticks of defencemen Dick Kotanen, Lou Hauck and Bob Wiest.

Colin Kilburn scored his 50th goal of the season for Flyers. Defencemen Pug Young and Don Cully rounded out the Edmonton goal output.

NEVER HEADED

Brown scored the first and last goals of the game, in which Caps were never headed. They led, 2 to 1, after the first period and 5 to 3 going into the third.

Edmonton protested Hauck's second-period goal but it was allowed by referee Pete Ullman.

Near the end of the final period a wild melee broke out after Kilburn tangled with Regina goalie Harry Barefoot. Norm Blackett of Caps and Don Cully of Flyers were drawn into the mix-up and came out of it with major penalties for fighting. Kilburn and Harold Brayshaw, who had come to Barefoot's aid, drew minors.

Bingo Kampman's Counter Gives Nanaimo Victory

NANAIMO (CP)—Despite a valiant fight, and icing but 10 men, Vernon, Canadians Wednesday night took their second defeat at the coast as they went down under a 3 to 2 count to Nanaimo Clippers in a Mainline-Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League fixture.

Canadians took a one-goal edge seconds before the first period bell sounded on Bud Kobussen's marker through George Hayes. Clippers got back in the game after 17 minutes in the second period when Mel Gourdau rifled home Dick Warwick's pass.

Warwick poked Vol's goalmouth pass behind goalie Bowler to give Nanaimo the lead for the first time. Vernon evened matters at the midway mark with Jakes and Waddington, but a bullet shot by Bingo Kampman proved the winning marker.

SAVANNAH, Ga.—Sugar Ray Robinson, 156, knocked out Aaron Wade, 161, San Francisco, 3 (non-title).

REFEREE GEORGE HAYES (centre) finds himself in a rough situation as he separates Elmer Lach (left) of Montreal and Ted Lindsay (right) of Detroit in the riotous first period of the Red Wings-Canadiens hockey game in Detroit. Lach and Lindsay were engaged in a wild fencing duel before Hayes skated in. The Red Wings shut out the Canadiens, 2 to 0.

Shutouts Mark Opening Interhigh Soccer Tilts

Too much class was the story in the opening games of the Interhigh Senior Soccer League yesterday.

The Victoria High School entry turned the tables on their long-time rivals, Oak Bay High, to capture a 3 to 0 decision, while in the second fixture, an aggressive Mount View eleven tripped Esquimalt High, 2 to 0.

The city schoolers held a definite edge in the territorial play throughout.

Bob Rowe opened the scoring when he took a pass from Cedric Robb and drove the sphere into the corner of the net. Minutes later, he missed adding a second when he broke into the clear, but shot wide.

ROBB SCORES

Winners continued to hem Bays in their own zone and after a series of scoring thrusts, were rewarded when Robb picked up a rebound and scored from close in.

Early in the second half, Wayne Henderson added the third when he knocked the Oak Bay netminder across the line when the latter hesitated momentarily in clearing a shot. Winners played defensive ball the rest of the way, and play centred in the mid-field area.

It was the same story in the other game. Saanichton grabbed a 1 to 0 lead in the first half on a goal by Dale Carter, and made it 2 to 0 early in the second session when Carlson found the hem.

Oil Capitol Wins Hialeah Handicap

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Oil Capitol, one of the leading Kentucky Derby candidates, Wednesday scored his initial victory as a three-year-old at Hialeah race course by winning the $10,000-added Everglades Handicap by two lengths in 1:50.

Calumet Farm's Theory—Warren Wright's hope for a fifth run for the roses triumph—trilled the dark grey Oil Capitol by two lengths for second and George D. Widener's Light Up was third.

Rangers Run Undeclared Streak To Seven Games

No team is breathing down their necks as yet, but the question of whether Detroit Red Wings can maintain their season-long leadership of the National Hockey League is being given more serious thought these days.

At Toronto last night the second-place Maple Leafs easily whipped Boston Bruins 3 to 1. The win put the Leafs within six points of the leaders with Detroit having 15 games left and Toronto 13.

Mercurys Held To Draw; Drop Hockey Series

LONDON (CP)—Edmonton Mercurys had enough scoring chances to win half a dozen games Wednesday night, but had to settle for a 2 to 2 draw with Harrington Racers of the English League.

The Mercurys, prepping for their engagements in the world hockey championships which begin here in March, swarmed around Harrington goalie Lorne Lussier for nearly 50 of the 60 minutes. The Racers netminder performed brilliantly to turn aside all but two Edmonton shots.

The result gave the Racers an 8 to 5 edge in the two-game, total-goal series with the Mercurys and won them a souvenir trophy presented by R. A. McFarlane, agent-general in London for the Saskatchewan government.

Edmonton had a big territorial margin in the first period, but their shooting was erratic, and the Racers counted the only goal of the session. This came from the stick of Ricky Ricard, Marlborough, Man., at the midway mark.

TIE SCORE

The Mercurys continued to pour on the pressure, and finally scored the equalizer at the nine-minute mark of the second period when Bob David drove home a rebound from a scramble. Six minutes later Ab Newsome trapped the Racers with only one defenceman back, coasted in and slid a neat pass to Leo Lucchini who fooled Lussier from close range.

The Canadian puckchasers still controlled 90 per cent of the play, but Ricard came through with the tying marker for Harrington after 13 minutes of the third period.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Lou Brissie today came to terms with Philadelphia Athletics. The signing of Brissie leaves five A's still unsigned, of whom only third-baseman Bob Dillinger is considered a major holdout.

ESKS AFTER LINDY BERRY

FORT WORTH, Tex. (CP)—Lindy Berry, star quarterback of Texas Christian University, said he has been negotiating with Edmonton Eskimos of Canada's Western Interprovincial Football Union and may be interested in signing with the club.

He was commenting on a report that he likely will be signed soon with the Eskimos.

Commercial Loop Enters Stretch; 3 Tilts Friday

With the four playoff positions practically decided, the six teams in the Commercial Hockey swing into their last Friday night stand of the regular league season tomorrow night at the Memorial Arena.

Douglas Fire, current league leaders, face the last-place B.O.P. sextette in Friday night's opening tussle, and a win for the former would practically clinch the loop title. B.O.P. still have a chance to vacate the cellar in their running games, as only four points separates them from the fifth-place Civil Service outfit.

The fourth-place Hotelmen stack up against the strong Navy squad in the second feature. A win for the bell-hops would make their playoff berth a certainty. The Hotelmen are currently sporting a five-point lead over the Servants.

In the final tilt, the Civil Service six plays host to the second-place Fishermen's Co-ops, who will be further strengthened with the return of leading scorer Eddie Varga. Out with a pulled tendon, it is reported Varga will be back in strip for the fixture. First game strip at 7.

Eagle-Times Win

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Eagle-Times turned tables Wednesday night on the defending Dominion senior basketball champions and tied a provincial semifinal best-of-five series at one game each.

New Plan For Emergencies

Lieut. Arthur Logie explains to interested Saanich resident, Mrs. E. Horsland, Box 1689 Glanford Avenue, features of new number plan designed to bring faster action in fire emergencies in the outlying areas. "I think the idea is very good," said Mrs. Horsland.

Welfare House Plan Seen As Improvement

Amid the flood of letters and telephone calls from persons protesting the proposed Welfare Building on the Pandora Green site came one to City Hall from Mrs. Jessie Emerson, 937 Balmoral Road, favoring the move. "After becoming used to the idea, I can see no objection to the proposed site, indeed it may be a decided improvement," she said. She said that few people used what greens and wide open spaces the city already had. In the letter she complained of the cluster lights, saying she was "sick and tired of smashed glass on my daily trips in to town." "Otherwise Victoria can still be a charming city and still quit aping either Old England or the U.S.A." Mrs. Marjorie Patterson and E. Patterson of 218 Vancouver Street, protested the erection of a welfare building on the Green. They felt some other favorable site, in keeping with the generous donation, could be found.

Canadian Mines Spend $151,000,000 Each Year

By FORBES RHUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor

The money in your pay envelope, or the profits in your business—where do they come from?

They come from many things, but a big source is Canadian mines. They are sending out a stream of dollars through all Canadian life.

A news letter of the Canadian Metal Mining Association says that producing metal mines alone now are paying to other Canadian industries for supplies some $151,000,000 a year, or nearly 30 cents of every dollar they earn.

How much is this, in familiar terms? It is, says the letter: $31,000,000 for freight and express, enough to send a fully-loaded extraordinary train 274 miles long from Halifax to Vancouver.

$10,000,000 for hydro-electric power, enough to supply the industrial city of Hamilton, Ont., for two years.

$15,400,000 for coal and coke, enough to heat every house and apartment building in Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Edmonton for one year.

$7,000,000 for electrical equipment, enough to buy an electric washing machine for every family in Ottawa.

Altogether, in addition to on-the-spot purchases in their own localities, Canadian mines buy materials and supplies from more than 500 non-mining communities across the country.

Death Of Bishop Widely Regretted

MONTREAL (CP)—The death of the Rt. Rev. W. E. Fuller, Anglican Bishop of Saskatoon, was described as a "great shock" and an irreparable loss to his community by Most Rev. George F. Kingston of Halifax, Anglican Archbishop of Nova Scotia and Primate of all Canada. In a statement to the Canadian Press Wednesday night the Archbishop said:

"Consecrated a bishop in the church of God only a few months ago, he was just beginning his pastoral work in the Diocese of Saskatoon, where his loss will be greatly felt."

"Bishop Fuller served helpfully as a chaplain in the navy during the last war. He was appointed dean of St. John's Cathedral, Saskatoon, before the war ended and there he was greatly beloved not only by the Anglican people but by all the citizens of the city."

Says Land Values Should Not Enter New P.G.E. Link

The government should not be influenced by property values in West Vancouver when planning construction of the P.G.E. rail link between Squamish and Vancouver, said C. W. Morrow, Cdn. North Okanagan, in the Legislature Wednesday. "The line should go by most practical route and the government should not be deterred from following the most economical plan by any ginger groups that might be worried over real property values at West Vancouver," Mr. Morrow stated.

He thought, too, that the government should consider bringing the railway into Vancouver proper instead of constructing a terminal at North Vancouver. This could be done through use of the Second Narrows Bridge, he said.

Fight With Lion Highlights Film

One of the highlights of "Samson and Delilah," Cecil B. de Mille's Technicolor movie adaptation of the Bible story, is Samson's barehanded fight with a lion.

Because of the danger involved to Victor Mature as Samson, the legendary strong man, and the intricate nature of the cutting, the fight sequence required a special crew and 14 weeks to film. On the screen, it consumes about five minutes.

Hedy Lamarr plays Delilah in the Paramount picture, which boasts a cast of thousands, headed by George Sanders, Angela Lansbury, and Henry Wilcoxon. "Samson and Delilah" opens Friday at the Dominion Theatre.

'The Westerner' Comes To Plaza

Against the colorful and adventure-filled background of the Old West, in the days when justice was administered at the point of a gun and roistering Judge Roy Bean loomed as the "Law West of the Pecos," Samuel Goldwyn's "The Westerner," with Gary Cooper in the title role, is showing at the Plaza Theatre today through Film Classics release.

Hollywood Producer Tells How Religion Affected His Life, Work

One of Hollywood's greatest pioneers and most famous figures found strength and guidance through his boyhood religious training. As a result Cecil B. deMille was inspired to produce such notable motion pictures as "Ten Commandments," "King of Kings," and "The Sign of the Cross." Mr. deMille is president of Cecil B. deMille Productions Inc., and has organized, and is president of the Mercury Aviation Company in Hollywood, Calif.

By Cecil B. deMille

Years ago in New York City an interviewer approached me. "Mr. deMille," he said, "I want to ask you a rather personal question—a question which few interviewers may have asked you—but one to which many people would like an answer. Cecil B. deMille I want to know what the finest religious memory of your life has been."

That one hit me squarely between the eyes. Religion has always been a vital part of both my home life and my career, but I was hesitant to discuss it openly. Still it was a good question, put differently by Thomas Carlyle. "The chief thing about a man is his religion."

I recalled my boyhood days when my father's vivid reading of the Bible had so profoundly influenced me. Then a particularly significant incident came into my mind—the occasion when a minister performed a complete church service with but a solitary boy in the congregation.

PREACHED EACH DAY

I never will forget this minister, with prominent red beard, who once came to preach for a week in my home town of Pompton, New Jersey. I was 10 at the time.

The visiting minister announced he would preach each day during Passion Week at an early morning service—eight o'clock as I recall. The morning I planned to attend dawned cold and rainy.

When I arrived I observed no one was present but myself and the red-bearded minister. I was the congregation.

Embarrassed, I took a seat, wondering anxiously what he would do. With calm and solemn dignity the minister walked into the pulpit. Then he looked down on me and smiled.

—a smile of great dignity and sincerity. In the congregation sat a solitary child, but he commenced the service as if the church was crowded to the walls. A ritual opened the services, followed by a reading lesson to which I gave the responses. Then the minister preached a short sermon. He talked earnestly to me—and to God.

FELT A THRILL

Then he did a beautiful thing. He left the pulpit and came down to the altar to receive my offering. As he did this he placed his hand on my head.

In walking back to my seat that day I knew this man's God was a real God, and that his faith was God-like in its monumental simplicity. It left a lump in my throat, and I cannot think of it even today without emotion.

When asked what it was that turned my mind toward the making of great Biblical motion pictures, I again traced back through the years to find the influence that first awakened my mind to the spiritual power of Biblical scenes. I have always been aware that the Bible was a "best seller," that more human beings have been interested in Bible stories than in any other stories on earth.

As a boy, however, I used to sit on the arm of a big leather chair every evening as my father read two chapters of the Bible, one from the Old Testament and one from the New. It was a family custom.

REVERENCE, RESPECT

I have no doubt that my father's vivid reading of Biblical stories planted in my impressionable mind a reverence and respect for the Bible, perhaps even a sense of its dramatic values, which in subsequent years was to turn me to the Great Book for themes to thrill motion picture audiences.

It was always a battle to get support and backing for Biblical pictures. Producers feared them on the basis such pictures would not yield enough to pay the enormous expenses involved. That was true with "The Ten Commandments," "The King of Kings," "The Sign of the Cross," and "The Crusades." However, they more than paid their way in both financial and spiritual benefits, and some are still playing in various parts of the world.

ENDLESS PARADE

I have been in Hollywood since 1913, during which time actors, actresses, directors and producers have passed in seemingly endless procession, some befriended by destiny, others lost in oblivion. In a way, like Hollywood there are many reasons for failure and unhappiness. I believe the chief among these is the failure to realize that the purpose of this life is understanding of the spirit and not worship before the calf of gold.

Tomorrow: Gene Tunney twice pounded out fistic victories over that great pugilist Jack Dempsey, but his greatest knockout was scored against his own fears. Tunney, himself, tells how it happened and what it meant to him.

U.S. Cities To See Drill Team From Victoria

Victoria's Girls' Drill Team will make public appearance this year at Portland and Walla Walla.

Decision to have the team attend festival celebrations in both cities was made by the drill team council.

In sanctioning two out-of-town trips, the council departed from previous procedure of allowing the team only one outside appearance a year.

Change in policy resulted when council members decided the team should give as much publicity to Victoria as possible.

Trip to Portland will occupy three days in June, when that city's world-famous Rose Festival is underway. Team will leave home June 9, returning June 11. Journey to Walla Walla will take up the first two days of September.

Wants Plebiscite

C. W. Morrow, Cdn-North Okanagan, said in the House Wednesday a plebiscite should be held throughout the province on the method of liquor distribution.

No government ever made a mistake by taking the people into its confidence, and the question of distribution of liquor should be put to them in such words that they would understand what they are voting for, the member stated.

Seeks More Funds For Games Branch

More funds for the Game Department was requested again in the Legislature Wednesday. The Coalition member for North Okanagan, Charles Morrow, said the plea of fish and game associations that all monies collected by the department should be expended in propagation and preservation of wild life, should be followed. Last year the game vote was $433,400 and approximately $560,000 of $676,686 collected by the department was spent on department activities.

No C.P.R. Plan To Reduce Passenger Fares In B.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway has no intention of reducing British Columbia's above-normal passenger fares, the royal commission on transportation was told.

C. E. Jefferson, C.P.R. traffic vice-president, gave this evidence

Langford Fire Losses $2,000

LANGFORD — Fire losses totaled $2,000, and property at risk was valued at $56,000, it was reported at the annual meeting of the Langford Volunteer Fire Department here.

The brigade attended eight chimneys, one house, one shed and 11 bush and grass fires last year. Only one false alarm was received. Fifty-one drills were held.

Fire protection has now been extended to Happy Valley, it was reported.

Members of the department started work on a new fire hall last November which has not yet been completed. A hall will be held in Colwood Hall on March 17 to raise funds for building under construction.

Wednesday under cross-examination by C. W. Brazier, British Columbia counsel in the commission's general transportation inquiry.

Mr. Jefferson further told the board he considers the Board of Transport Commissioners was wrong in its ruling last year ordering the railways to remove their "mountain differential" freight rate on some Rockies hauls.

The mountain differential was 1 1/4 times the prairie scale. B.C.'s standard passenger fares, also based on the fact of mountain operations, are one-half cent per mile above normal. They apply, chiefly, on intra-provincial passenger service, and not on such traffic as transcontinental movements.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1950

TIMES

By ART STOTT

THAT "MILLION miles from Ottawa" point of view loses force now the federal capital, in improved and model form, is on display here. Several thousand Victorians have inspected it. They seem to hold a personal pride in the national capital.

The exhibit helps them to feel their place in Canada. The Rockies don't seem such a high barrier. The water gap between Victoria and the mainland is ignored.

The casual comments of visitors tell a story:

"I'm glad to see so many trees and open spaces."

"Wonderful piece of work. But it's 60 years since I was there. Takes a bit of studying to see where these places will be built."

"This is going to be a real capital for our country."

A LITTLE disappointing is the absence from the model of trains. All that landscape and no engines and passenger cars running around. That points up one of the main aims of the planners. The railroads, which an early Ottawa invited into the city, will be banished from the main section. They will run on the outskirts. The heavy industry that makes part of the present capital ugly will move out to them.

Walter B. Bowker, director of information, National Capital Planning Committee of the Federal District Commission, explains some of the detail connected with the exhibit. Each of two models are built to scale. Jacques Greber, French town planning expert, who was engaged to direct the project had previously had all his models made in Paris. Bowker, ex-newspaperman and member of the National Film Board since he left the army, persuaded him to try Canadian talent. The result is seen in reproductions that have won Greber's praise.

THE BUILDINGS ARE working models, removed occasionally and re-designed as architects change their minds. The measure of exactness is shown by the master planner's directions to Bowker:

"I want to be able to take a scoop of earth from the model, and I want you to tell me how many cubic feet of dirt that scoopful represents."

A day before the exhibit was to open in Montreal, Parliament decided to remodel an old Rockcliffe home as the official residence of the Prime Minister. Mr. St. Laurent was scheduled to open the display and the house was not on it.

In a matter of hours a film board man had sketched the original building, craftsmen had built it in miniature, and when the Prime Minister arrived for the ceremonies, the home was in position.

ONLY GOD CAN make a tree. But the film crew manufactured reasonable small facsimiles. The ones with bushy crowns are made by sticking a compound — Bowker calls it "goop" concocted in an empty tomato can — on wire "trunks". Chopsticks are used to place the substance on the wires and the naturalness of the effect is amazing. Poplars, and other tall, slender species, are rolled like pencils before they are anchored in mock boulevards. Others are made with cork pressed into special shapes.

A thousand problems were overcome in preparation of the exhibit. A film accompanying it shows, in one scene, a small girl gazing in awe at a museum piece. In the middle of the sequence, the little girl lost interest and started to look for the bathroom. The scene was cut. The importance of the actual rebuilding of parts of Ottawa is, to Bowker, not so significant as the idea the project conveys. Bowker sees it as a monument to the Canadian spirit. It is a symbol of a broader nationhood that grew steadily during the war and reached maturity with the new Citizenship Act.

APART FROM satisfying curiosity, the exhibit is an effective means of promoting unity. It helps to kill the idea that Ottawa is a city in a distant province.

And how is housing in Ottawa while these splendid plans are going ahead?

"Grim," say the courteous and bilingual young lady who has stayed with the exhibit since it left home. "I have a bachelor apartment. Everytime I open the window, the room fills with soot. But I'm lucky to have it."

COURT REFUSES TO RESCIND SALEDeal Involving New Westminster
Cold Storage Plant To Stand

Appeal Court today dismissed the appeal of James Edward Kingsley, retired business man, against the Delta Cold Storage Ltd. for return of $10,500.

Kingsley, who bought a cold storage plant from the firm near New Westminster, sought to rescind the sale agreement on the ground that the refrigeration building had been sold to him in a poor working condition. He asked for the return of $10,500 which he paid to the company as down payment for the property.

The plant was sold for $22,000. The court also dismissed the appeal of James Freeman Cameron, logger, and William Kennedy, real estate agent, who appealed against a decision of Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker awarding judgment in favor of William H. Munzie, retired logger.

The Supreme Court ordered the two directors of the M. & K. Logging Co. Ltd. to pay Munzie $2,400 for company shares he sold them under an agreement. The appeal of Lawrence B. Kelley, farmer, Louis Creek, was allowed by the court against the Canadian Northern Railway Co. The farmer claimed $300 in damages for water which flooded his property, caused by a dam constructed by the company.

Boy's Death
Accidental Jury Finds

Accidental death was the verdict returned at the inquest on Richard J. Thornton, 9, of 780 Dominion Road, who died as a result of injuries suffered when he was in collision with a B.C.E.R. bus on Esquimalt Road last Monday.

Death was due to shock from injuries, Dr. Adelard Trotter, attending physician, announced. The boy suffered compound fracture of the right upper arm and fracture of both bones in the right lower leg. There was no evidence of a skull fracture, he said.

William Neilson, driver of the west-bound bus, was unable to give testimony as his physician stated he was in no condition to attend the inquest.

Witnesses said young Thornton was proceeding east along Esquimalt Road on his bicycle, when suddenly he swerved to the left after looking behind to see if anything was coming. The bus was said to be traveling at a moderate speed on its own side of the road and the cyclist collided with the front corner of the vehicle.

Witnesses included Albert John Thornton, Victor Munch, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Butterworth, Maynard Blaaw and Constable Brian Ferguson.

The second largest group, 52, were men and women from B.C. Thirty were from England, 14 from Scotland and there were a few from Ireland, United States, China, Russia, Norway, Finland and Germany.

In Court For Sale Of Bottle Of Rye

Cameron T. Leslie, H.M.C.S. Ontario, was remanded to tomorrow for sentence when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to unlawfully selling liquor. "No special circumstances," he said a bottle of rye, C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor, told Magistrate Hall, who asked for a probation officer's report on the sailor.

Court Scene Of Battle Over City License Fee Validity

Validity of an amendment to the city by-law which increased most trade and professional license rates last year, was the subject of a strongly contested legal battle in Appeal Court today.

The trade license legal test battle is the aftermath of a police court conviction against J. R. McIlree who was found guilty of failing to pay the increased license fee in accordance with the city by-law which raised the fees for lawyers from $25 to $75. He was fined $250 and ordered to pay the full fee.

McIlree appealed the magistrate's decision to County Court and challenged the city's right to increase the fees. His appeal was dismissed by Judge H. H. Shandley because he had failed to notify the Attorney-General with a notice of appeal.

Having lost the first round, McIlree is now appealing Judge Shandley's decision. He is represented by March Gordon.

A constitutional issue was dragged into the case as a preliminary objection by C. L. Harrison, acting as counsel for the city, at today's hearing. The lawyer argued that the Appeal Court had no right to hear the appeal on the grounds that the appeal had been taken under the provincial statutes.

CLAIMS CRIMINAL OFFENCE

Mr. Harrison claimed that failure to comply with a city by-law constituted a criminal offence when it was punishable by a fine and imprisonment. He argued that, for this reason, the appeal should have been taken under the Dominion Criminal Code.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Nationalist planes roared over Shanghai again today and air force headquarters said they scored direct hits on three ocean-going ships in the harbor.

The Nationalists claimed a number of small craft were sunk or damaged.

The planes also attacked Communist installations in the Chusan Island group 100 miles off Shanghai.

While Nationalists pressed their air war against China's big cities, they said a guerrilla campaign against the Reds was spreading simultaneously throughout the mainland.

"All provinces had a right to make laws," said Mr. Morrison, but when a fine or imprisonment is imposed for failure to comply with the provincial statutes, they fall under the jurisdiction of the Criminal Code.

Mr. Harrison said the method of criminal procedure should be the same in every province. He pointed out that, under the British North America Act, criminal procedure came under the jurisdiction of the Dominion code.

Under the present system, Mr. Harrison said, each province had its own procedure in enforcing its statutory laws. This, he claimed was contrary to the B.N.A. Act.

Col. Eric Pepler was present in court to represent the province with regard to the constitutional issue.

Should Mr. Harrison win his point it will mean that provincial statutes punishable by fine or imprisonment will henceforth be regarded as criminal offences.

Up to the present, many of the provincial laws are regarded as neither criminal nor civil.

There were 33,485,945 feet board measure of timber scaled in the province last month compared with 158,737,590 board feet in the corresponding month of last year, it was reported today by the Department of Lands and Forests.

Though catches were less in the Vancouver Island west coast area and the central area of district two, fishing is not yet over, and catches may be more than last year later on.

In the northern section of district two, the catch totals 36,880 tons as compared to 17,800 tons a year ago. Upper east coast of Vancouver Island yielded 8,614 tons in the current season as against only 1,527.52 tons last year.

Imports Show Advanced Styles

By MARGUERITE DALZIEL

While fashionable women in London are searching the shops in hopes of finding an ensemble bearing a Matita label — which means a beautifully turned-out garment in the height of style — we in Victoria have the opportunity of picking and choosing.

Matita models, much sought in England where they are manufactured, are almost entirely for export and a number of them are included in a shipment newly arrived in Victoria.

Fresh from the packing cases, the ensembles are shown in chinchilla — about the purest wool there is — sleek worsteds, light as a feather angora, hand-woven tweeds and purest silks. They are lower in price, too, you will be pleased to note.

Fashion news lies in deep pocket treatment and wide, stitched cuffs on coats and suits; in huge rolled collars; pleats, both inverted and in dozens and dozens of tiny knife folds.

Many of the suits feature bloused and belted jackets over stem straight skirts.

Dresses, sans padding, have that soft, sloping look at the shoulder. Many are completely sleeveless and in some instances the yoke is extended to the shoulder fashioning a slight cap sleeve.

Imported from Scotland is a three-piece suit in light but warm angora, simply tailored in beautifully blended pastels — green and mauve touched with blue. This suit sells for $125.

From England comes a grey worsted suit with navy piping at the tailored collar and repeated on pockets of the double-breasted jacket fastened with plain bone buttons. Interest in the skirt made with sets of knife pleats right the way around. Sale price, $195.

Donkey and white hand-woven tweed fashions a sleek fitted coat, lifted from the ordinary, with deep pockets, original collar treatment and two huge brown leather buckles on the belted waist. Price, $105.

If you like a coat that catches the eye, there is a Chinese red sport coat in chinchilla made with wide cuffed sleeves, a long inverted pleat at the back, and tapered tuxedo front. This one costs $139.

When it comes to afternoon frocks, there's variety both in style and material.

Narrow-pleats from shoulder to hemline are seen in a jersey dress. Its wide leather belt saves it from that 1920 look. This New York import, sleeveless and with rounded neckline is listed at $65.

A French model frock on champagne and white polka dot, is fashioned with narrow necktie collar, the yoke extending to cap the shoulder. Cost is $115.

Another import from England is a model in non-creasing, purest silk, fashioned in pale mauve figured with black. Cut on simple lines, it features bow knots in place of pockets. Sale price, $85.

Natural shantung, heavy as sail cloth, is shown in an extremely tailored dress, one of the few trimmed with self-covered buttons. Pockets on this dress are deep set, and an inverted pleat reaches from waist to hemline. Price, $65.

Of course, we couldn't leave the subject of imports without mentioning a gorgeous cocktail and dinner dress frock, in the new shorter length.

Of French make, the frock is of pure silk taffeta, in cocoa tone, with halter neckline, deftly ruched bodice, and full, flared skirt.

A demure jacket buttoned from trim collar to waist, with drop shoulder neckline from which a four-inch frill fashions tiny sleeves, completes this ensemble. Cost, $150.

For Children — Miss Nora O'Connell distributed wool and flannellette to members wishing to make clothing for the Child Welfare Association, at the regular meeting of the Junior Catholic Women's League, held at Veritas Library with Mrs. Mary Wakelin presiding. Mrs. R. Walker reported on a successful bridge party, proceeds of which will be used for maintenance of the library; Miss J. Murray spoke of aid given to Father Bradley's Indian Missions. Plans for the rummage sale on March 4 were discussed and following close of business, a discussion hour was enjoyed.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

WHEN SHOULD WORKING MOTHER RETURN TO HER JOB

The problem of the working mother is one that has to be met repeatedly. Women who have trained for a career cannot be blamed for not wanting to drop it because of parenthood and neither should they be denied that precious boon.

The birth of children may aggravate the economic situation in a home so that the mother may be compelled to get out and earn some money. It isn't always an easy solution for either parent nor is the mother always eager to get away from her parental responsibilities as some might surmise.

It would probably be best to make the date of this separation sometime before the ninth month. After that children develop an increasing timidity toward strangers.

And two weeks before you go to work take the new caretaker in your home, supervise her care of the baby and let her get used to her. And, most important of all, be sure that she is an individual who likes babies — all babies. No matter how good her physical care, if she does this only through a sense of duty and has no real affection for her charge, the baby will suffer from your absence. If she is a kindly, affectionate person the baby will transfer her affection to the nurse and will feel secure in your absence.

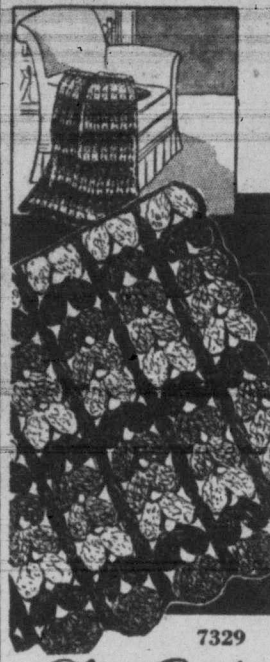

Our leaflet No. 86 "How to be a Good Parent," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Delegates Entertained At Empress Party

Executive members and delegates to the annual meeting of Provincial Council of Women were honor guests at a tea given by Mrs. John Cates, standing left, in the Empress Hotel yesterday afternoon. Among guests were, left to right, Mrs. George Kissick, West Vancouver; Mrs. H. Hoggood, Kamloops, and Mrs. R. C. Cormier, New Westminster.

Challenge Issued By President

"Women should have a part in making laws. To do this we must realize we need education in political and social work. We must prepare ourselves by study and research so that when we are in a position to voice our opinion, it will be worth hearing."

This was the challenge given to delegates and visitors by president, Mrs. R. C. Cormier, New Westminster, at the opening session of the annual meeting, held yesterday morning in the Y.W.C.A.

FOR QUICK ACTION

The president suggested to members that an action committee be formed to speed up council action.

This committee, she explained, would probably be composed of nine members who would meet once during a month.

Three of these members would form a lookout committee to gather news of all new legislation, Dominion or provincial.

The committee would write to councils, getting their opinions and then decide upon the action to be taken, she continued.

"In this way we could keep our government informed of the opinion of women and what they want," she stated.

"All man-made laws would go pretty well by the board if women did not see to it that they were carried out. Therefore women should have a part in making laws," said Mrs. Cormier.

WANT RECOGNITION

"It is not that we want to dominate the male sex, but we must be recognized as a force in every country's natural life," she stressed.

Three topics were offered for future discussion by the president: hospital insurance, Sunday observance and unemployment situation.

MORE EMPLOYMENT

To this last, Mrs. Cormier stated, "We must have work, production and thrift. These things gave Canada its start and they can help save the world."

She stated that an employment program for December, January and February should be arranged and that federal and provincial governments should take this responsibility.

She reminded members that resolutions must be forwarded early.

This morning's session of the council included reports of local committees and continuance of the round table discussion. This afternoon delegates attended the session of the Legislature at the Parliament Buildings.

Strawberry Vale—The monthly meeting of Strawberry Vale Community Club was held with D. McLean in the chair. Plans for a rummage sale to augment funds for renovation of the hall were discussed and at conclusion of business a banquet supper was served, during which Mrs. McLean played Scottish tunes on the bagpipes.

Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, Victoria, right, is immediate past president of the provincial council. Seated with her are Mrs. A. F. Bullen, Mission, and Mrs. Q. Crawford, New Westminster.

Mrs. Cormier Re-elected Head Of Provincial Women's Council

Delegates from Kamloops, Chilliwack, Nanaimo, New Westminster, North Shore Mission City, Vancouver and Victoria re-elected Mrs. R. C. Cormier, president of the Provincial Council of Women, at the yesterday's session of the annual meeting held in the Y.W.C.A. here.

Mrs. Alfred Carmichael, Victoria, is past president. Other officers are Mrs. H. Hoggood, Kamloops, first vice-president;

Mrs. F. Woollett, Nanaimo, second vice-president; Mrs. J. M. Johnson, North Shore, third vice-president; Mrs. M. Shiles, New Westminster, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. J. Hollis, Vancouver, recording secretary.

Named as chairmen of special committees are Mrs. Amy, New Westminster, education committee; Mrs. I. Z. Convey, Chilliwack, laws; Dr. Marian Sherman, Victoria, health and welfare.

DOUBLE-RING CEREMONY

Eliuk-Peck Nuptials Link Victoria, Prairie Families

Winnipeg, the home of the groom's parents, shares interest with Victoria in the marriage of Elizabeth Eleanor "Betty," daughter of Mrs. Anne Peck, 1269 Montrose Avenue, to Melvin Michael Eliuk, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Eliuk.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized early Tuesday evening by Dean G. R. Calvert in Christ Church Cathedral.

Given in marriage by T. B. Arnason, the bride wore a Princess-line gown fashioned in gleaming satin. Delicate lace created a centre-front panel on the full skirt, slightly en train. Pearls, trimming the rounded neckline, were repeated on the headpiece, crowning a veil of illusion net which misted slightly beyond the wedding dress.

The bride, wearing her groom's gift, a pearl necklace, carried a white prayer book mounted with a mauve orchid.

Attendants three wore colonial picture gowns, matching head-dresses and carried old-fashioned bouquets of tulips and freesias and forget-me-nots.

Maid of honor, Miss Betty Rainaldi, was gowned in white figured pink nylon with pearl trimmed neckline. Miss Marilyn Anderson, bridesmaid, wore a tiered gown of taffeta turquoise, and junior attendant, Miss June Arnason had a yellow taffeta frock mounted with bouffant net overskirt.

Elmer Larson attended the groom as best man and ushering were Albert Schwartz and Edward Schattenkirk. Graham Steed was organist.

William Mawle proposed a toast to the bride at a reception in Loughheed's Banquet Hall. Mrs. Peck, mother of the bride, wore a maize, floor-length gown, small black hat and orchid-toned accessories, as she assisted in receiving guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Eliuk left for the mainland for a wedding trip and will return to Victoria to live.

The bride wore a burgundy suit, navy topcoat, orchid corsage bouquet, and grey accessories.

Miss Bartling Makes Plea For Racial Groups

A special plea that the spirit of toleration and good will shown in allowing different racial groups to settle in Canada, be enlarged to allow them to take their place as equal citizens, was voiced by Miss H. Bartling of the Chinese Christian Community Centre, in an address at the Women's Missionary Society meeting held in First United Church.

Miss Bartling pointed out that many of the young people of these groups, although educated in this country and thoroughly adapted to Canadian life, found themselves up against an "iron curtain of prejudice" when it came to obtaining positions.

This caused bitterness, the speaker said, and prevented their full assimilation into the life of Canada.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

SKINNY PEOPLE MUST EAT MORE AND DO LESS TO GAIN WEIGHT

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Most skinny people say that no matter what they eat they cannot gain weight. Even when this statement seems true, and they seem to eat as much as others who have a more normal amount of fat on their bodies, they can usually gain if they work at it.

Food is something like coal: the food is the fuel for the human body. Unlike coal, however, if more is taken in than is used, it will be transformed and stored as fat. The answer to the question of gaining weight therefore is to take more food in than is used by the burning-up activities of the body in the form of exercise and other bodily functions.

NEED MORE CALORIES

Foods can be chosen which have a comparatively high calorie or fuel content. Fats or carbohydrates supply more energy and therefore have more likelihood of putting on fat than proteins do. Besides choosing the foods for their weight and energy-producing qualities, it is comparatively simple just to eat more.

High calorie-containing foods include the sweets, potatoes, bread and butter, cereals, butter or margarine, cream and the like. Whole milk is also helpful. In trying to eat more fat-producing foods the other necessary elements of the diet should not be left out. One must obtain balance in the diet and some fruits, meat, vegetables, eggs, fish, and other substances which are not high in fat-producing calories should be continued to maintain good health.

It cannot be emphasized too often that a balanced diet must be kept up. Almost anyone who does not have some serious disease can gain weight by following the plan of decreasing activity and increasing the food eaten.

Question: I had a tick bite two years ago and it hasn't healed yet. What do you advise?

Answer—There is probably some chronic infection present which has prevented healing. Quite likely simple surgical treatment would help.

Year More Of Rationing Foods Face U.K. People

Rules May Not Be Even Eased At All

By E. S. JOHNSON

LONDON (CP)—The long-suffering British householder must face the prospect of another year of food-rationing.

Authority for this statement is Dr. Edith Summerskill, parliamentary secretary to Food Minister Strachey, who believes rationing will continue throughout 1950 no matter what party comes out on top in the Feb. 23 general election. She even doubts if it will be possible to relax existing restrictions.

Dr. Summerskill says that during the 4½ years she has been associated with the Food Ministry she has come to realize that too many factors enter into the rationing picture to risk glowing promises.

With an increased allowance of many necessities and milk, potatoes, bread and jam off the restricted list, she thought encouraging progress was being made in the rationing program.

Target of widespread criticism by those dissatisfied with Food Ministry regulations, the matronly doctor admits rationing has never been easy. But she thinks British housewives are beginning to feel it is not so grim as it was.

Those who complain about rationing in Britain while other European countries—even Germany—are not restricted, should realize, she says, that where rationing has occurred, supplies available are largely governed by price.

By way of explanation, Dr. Summerskill said that food subsidies in Britain worked out at about 14 shilling (about $2.17) a week for a family of four. Controls on food probably could be lifted by abolishing these subsidies, but lower income groups would not be able to buy their share.

CANDY EXPERIENCE

"When we abolished sweets rationing there was not enough to go around and the greedy got the big share," she declared. "We are not going to risk that with staple foods."

A new level of infant and maternal mortality had been established during the years of rationing. And in that period, despite great food difficulties, there had not been a single epidemic, she said.

"It shows that our people have more resistance to disease and infection than ever before. From comments made by physicians from other countries, it is quite clear our children are the admiration of the world."

Sewer Problems Blamed On 'Quake

The city has been asked to investigate sewer and storm drain conditions in lower sections of Fairfield district, embracing Chapman and Oxford Streets.

In a petition, thirty-three householders and ratepayers, said they did much individually to keep the sewer laterals clear and their own basements dry, but despite their efforts, each wet season saw conditions progressively worsened.

"Some can date sewer troubles from the time of the severe earthquake of a few years ago and the thought naturally follows that possibly the mains were affected at the time," the petitioners said in a covering letter.

CBC Reports It Must Receive More Revenue

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC, in its 1948-49 report to the government, said it also is being caught in the squeeze between stable revenues and rising costs.

The report, covering the fiscal year ended March 31, 1949, was tabled in the Commons by Revenue Minister McEwen, who reports to Parliament for the publicly-owned radio system.

Much of the content was made public in submissions of the CBC to the royal commission on arts and science.

The CBC asked the commission to recommend that the license fee on radio receiving sets be increased from $2.50 to $5 yearly. The commission's report on its hearings is expected to be presented to the government in the fall.

"Because of swollen costs, the corporation will have to reduce drastically its services and program standards unless its revenue basis is changed," the report said.

In the year ended March 31 last the operating deficit, after provision for depreciation, was approximately $44,000.

Vernon Advises City Of Scheme On School Costs

A new method of meeting school costs has been devised by the city of Vernon, according to Mayor T. R. B. Adams, who wrote Mayor Percy George today of the 'scheme the city put forth.

"The city's proportion has risen to such an extent that it has become an economic impossibility to meet our share solely from the taxation of real property, the only source of revenue available to us," Mayor Adams wrote of school cost increases.

"We have refused our school estimates and have offered the school board as the city's share, five mills on 100 per cent of improvements, plus the total receipts from the three per cent Social Security and Municipal Aid Tax."

Mayor Adams said the amount was more than the school costs of 1948 but only a little over half the estimated 1950 costs.

Ortona Being Restored; Canadians Remembered

Italians Put Flowers On 1,500 War Graves

By WILLIAM BOSS

ORTONA, Italy (CP)—Devastated six years ago by one of the worst battles fought in the Italian campaign, Ortona is almost a city reborn.

Though traces of the fighting remain everywhere and gaps bounded by fences of rubble dot the streets, new buildings abound in the little town whose crown once more is the domed Cathedral of St. Thomas.

Completed on its old lines last year, the rebuilt basilica was dedicated last September by Federico Cardinal Tedeschini during two-day rejoicings by the Ortonesi, who still remember their Canadian liberators.

Last Dec. 28, as on every preceding Dec. 28 since their 1943 liberation, virtually every man in the town walked in procession down the winding Adriatic highway to the cemetery two miles southward, overlooking the Moro River.

FLOWERS PLACED

There, in one of Italy's most beautiful war cemeteries, each of the nearly 1,500 graves received fresh flowers from the head of the family responsible for its care, while other mourners piled their tributes high around the memorial cross. The mayor and the cathedral rector recalled to the townspeople how much they owed to Canada.

The Dominion, too, is not forgetting Ortona. A new "Operation Ortona," led by Canadian Ambassador Jean Desy, is campaigning quietly among old soldiers from coast to coast for $10,000 with which to rehabilitate the ancient church of San Donato, through whose gates visitors to the cemetery must pass.

DECORATION BY CANADIANS

The ambassador already has almost $3,000 for his fund. The church's fabric is to be restored and the interior to be decorated by Canadian artists, whose paintings and carved wooden statues will be brought from the Dominion.

An architect loaned by the Vatican already is supervising structural work, while the ambassador has sent to Canada his ideas for furnishings in keeping with the slightly rococo style of the building. The rededication is tentatively scheduled for October.

Meanwhile, the heritage of the war continues in the orphans of the area. So many are there that the Quakers have left in Ortona a worker to supervise their relief. And the International Red Cross gave Mr. Desy a Christmas present of $5,000 to spend on orphans left in Italian communities through which Canadians fought.

So the money may be used in substantial quantities and not divided among all in insignificant amounts, the ambassador and Yvon Beaulne of Ottawa, who was with the Canadians in Italy, will choose two or three areas important in the Canadians' campaigns.

Soon orphanages in Ortona, and possibly in the Frosinone, Rimini and Ravenna areas, will receive blankets, clothing and medical supplies through the Canadian Embassy, gifts of the Swiss Red Cross.

Private enterprise and government aid have combined in the reconstruction of Ortona. "Casa Popolare," six-story modern tenement blocks at cheap rents, have been built at the town's western approaches, just back of Casa Berardi where Col. Paul Triquet of Ottawa and Quebec City won the Victoria Cross in an advance by the Royal 22nd Regiment.

Shops along Ortona's Corso abound in merchandise. Enough rebuilding remains to ensure that Ortonesi have money to patronize them and the numerous cafes and bars for some years.

PUBLICITY FOR VACANT SEATS

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank Folwell (P.C.-Hastings South, Ont.) suggested Tuesday night in the Commons that openings of Parliament in the Senate at least should be broadcast from coast to coast. It would be good Canadianism.

Police Appealing Charge Dismissal

Attorney-General's department is being petitioned by the Saanich police commission to appeal Magistrate Henry C. Hall's decision in dismissing a charge of careless driving against Sgt. Thomas Stevenson, city policeman.

Reeve Joseph W. Casey, chairman of the police board, reported this Tuesday night. Action came after the board had consulted Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison.

Sgt. Stevenson was the driver of a car which was in collision with and badly injured seven-year-old Murray Easton, 3441 Bonair Place, on Shelbourne Street, Oct. 24. Charge of careless driving under Section 57 of the provincial Motor Vehicle Act was laid by Saanich police. Magistrate Hall dismissed the charge on Jan. 26.

'Stromboli' In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A spokesman for British Columbia's movie censors announced Tuesday Vancouver definitely will see the film "Stromboli," probably in late April or early May. He said the picture will be judged "just like any other picture," with no regard for any notoriety surrounding its star, Ingrid Bergman, and its director, Roberto Rossellini.

UNCLE RAY

TRIP ACROSS ANDES PROVED HARD AND DANGEROUS

San Martin was 32 years old when he returned to Argentina, his native land. Quickly he set to work to raise an army to fight for the freedom of his country.

One important thing was that this man could take a broad view of things. After watching the struggle against Spain, he decided that the best hope was for revolts to take place in many lands, not just in one. He felt that there was special need to help the people of Chile and Peru to gain their freedom.

As a big step toward that end, he decided to take an army across the Andes Mountains. Never before had an army tried to cross so many steep slopes of the Andes.

The general was equal to the task. Calling his men together—3,000 foot soldiers and 1,000 cavalymen—he led them up the mountains, along with their beasts of burden and hundreds of cannon.

Up the slopes the men and animals struggled. There were 10,000 mules at the start, but little food could be given them along the way. More than half of the mules died.

Crossing passes which were from two to three miles above sea level, the men suffered from the fact that the air was thin and cold. Only a few soldiers died, however, along the way.

The weeks dragged by, and then—at last—came a valley on the western side of the Andes. There the rebels met the soldiers of the Spanish king, and defeated them.

It seemed to be a great victory, and it really was important, but it failed to end all trouble. Years were to pass before San Martin could set Chile free and win a section of Peru.

The people of Chile were thankful to this man from Argentina, who had done so much for them. They voted him a salary of 6,000 pesos a year and offered him a present of silver tableware.

"No," said San Martin, "I feel that the people of Chile need all the money which can be raised by their government. We should all work for freedom without the reward of valuable goods."

San Martin fought on the side of freedom until he was 44 years

Driving Freight Road Across North Manitoba

Transportation To Be Speeded Up

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Hardy bushmen are hacking their way through muskeg, bush and snow in the construction of a 350-mile winter freighting road that will run straight as an arrow across the northern section of Manitoba. Heading the compact road gang is Gregory Lamb of The Pas, son of Tom Lamb, muskrat rancher, bush pilot, trader and fishing operator. The eight-man crew will be on the job until about April 10, about the limit for heavy tractors operating on ice.

When completed—and government officials decline to forecast when that may be—the road will link The Pas with Island Lake on the eastern side of the province near the Ontario border. It will pass through the settlement of Norway House at the head of Lake Winnipeg.

A large caterpillar tractor with a bulldozer blade is being used to clear the way. Since the muskeg is frozen, the big blade is able to cut through easily.

The road is a joint project of the federal Indian Affairs Department and the provincial and federal governments. In Winnipeg, George Collins, deputy provincial minister of highways, said it is not possible to estimate cost of the road since arrangements call for payment on a daily basis.

"However, it certainly will not cost a great deal as roads go," he added.

LOWER RATES

The road will open up a cheaper freight route for eastern sections of the northland. Hitherto, such cargoes have had to go by rail and tractor train. Now it will be possible to ship by boat up Lake Winnipeg to Norway House and haul cargoes over the road from there.

Dr. Cameron Corrigan, in charge of the Indian hospital at Norway House, also expects his work to benefit from the road. Any surplus patients have had to be flown to the Clearwater Lake Hospital near The Pas. Once the road is completed it old. Then he went back to Europe, and died in France at the age of 72.

(For Biography section of your scrapbook.)

would be possible, in the winter at least, to transport such patients to Clearwater Hospital in a few hours by bombardier.

Many Canadians Visit Rome Now

ROME (CP)—Canadians are encountered almost as frequently in Rome as in Paris or Amsterdam.

In religious, artistic and commercial life, either as temporary or permanent residents, their presence keeps aglow the spark of affection felt by Italians for Canadians since the war.

Although most make the Canadian Embassy on Via Mercadante and the Pontifical Canadian College on the Via Quattro Fontane regular ports of call, some such as Maj. J. A. Greene of Edmonton have carried on for years without making their presence known.

Formerly in the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, with whom he fought in Sicily and Italy, Maj. Greene since the war has settled in Rome, where he runs an export agency through which Italian products are sold to the Dominion.

Msgr. Paul-Emile Leger of Montreal is rector of the Canadian College, founded in 1888, a year after Queen Victoria gave the Sulpician Fathers of Montreal special permission to export 1,500,000 gold francs with which to build it.

Though called a college, no lectures are delivered to the 46 French and English-speaking Canadians resident there, all of whom are students at one or other of the Roman universities.

Msgr. Leger, whose staff consists of Rev. Omer Tanguay of Montreal as busar, six French-speaking Canadian Sisters of the Holy Family all from Sherbrooke, Que., and six Italian male servants, is in charge of their spiritual direction only.

Chief Asks St. Laurent Free 'Enslaved' Indians

Cabinet Head Should Confess, He Declares

HURON VILLAGE, Que. (BUP) — Colorful Jules Siqui, self-styled chief of the North American Indian Movement has demanded that Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent confess to enslavement of Indians.

Unless the cabinet head signs a confession and promises to liberate Indians from enslavement, Siqui will conduct a Gandhi-like hunger strike.

Siqui delivered an ultimatum to Mr. St. Laurent by registered letter.

The Indian leader said he had demanded the Prime Minister visit his so-called "Naiing" headquarters in this small Quebec village, and sign on the dotted line.

Meanwhile, copies of the prepared confession statement, he said, were ready to be sent to all members of Parliament, the United Nations and other world organizations.

Siqui's ultimatum contained a

10-point list of accusations against the big white chief.

'PERSONALLY RESPONSIBLE'

"I hold Canada's white man government and Mr. St. Laurent personally responsible for the enslaving of Indians who are the rightful owners of the land and waters of Canada," the ultimatum said.

"You and your predecessors have violated the right of property in taking over the land of the Indians and in beating them to death," Siqui wrote Mr. St. Laurent.

"The white men have subjugated, silenced and sent my people to die slowly and in misery on unlivable reserves," he said.

In an interview here, he said it was time the Indians awoke from their shackles and liberated themselves.

"Those of us who are still alive today continue to suffer and die in misery in the backwoods where they (the white men) have pushed us," he charged.

TO EASE HEADACHES OF SAANICH FIREFIGHTERS

"My house is burning up. This is Oscar Little and I live on Keating Cross Road—you know, the big house with the green roof."

And so it goes—only sometimes the scene of trouble is even more vaguely described by agitated residents to the alarm room operators at the Saanich Fire Department headquarters hall . . . and has, on occasions, caused serious or total loss by fire due to poor directions.

It is to counteract this main headache in Saanich's outlying areas that Fire Chief Joseph Law has devised a plan for numbering the properties for fire department use.

Under the plan the house-holders will be given a metal number plate—guaranteed to withstand the shock of the elements for 10 years—for a small fee.

These will be erected at the entrance to properties in the area which do not have addressed streets. It means that if a fire occurs the home owner only has to give the alarm room operator the "Fire District" number and immediate action will follow.

Poles for the plates will be supplied if wanted for nominal fee.

At the fire hall will be a "master sheet" and through this the operators can pin-point the trouble spot at a moment's notice.

It is the hope of the fire chief that the council will approve the plan and that property owners will see its value and give it support.

The chief also hopes to have two-way radios installed in fire trucks so that alarm room personnel can provide information to the firemen on the way as to the quickest way to get there and what water supplies are available.

Actor Punched

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dana Andrews is nursing what the boxing profession calls a "butterfly nose." The actor's nose absorbed a punch thrown by ex-lightweight Bob Evans Monday during filming of a movie scene in "Where the Sidewalk Ends." Doctors said the nose will swell considerably and cause both eyes to blacken.

CURRENCY FOR WEST POWERS

OTTAWA (CP)—H. O. White (P.C.-Middlesex East, Ont.) said in the Commons Tuesday that if the western powers could find tanks and guns fit for universal use they surely could find a universal currency. He wondered how one could expect to have strong western nations if they were unable to trade freely.

Commonwealth Counts Lepers At 3,000,000

LONDON (CP)—Three million persons throughout the British Commonwealth today are suffering from leprosy.

Of this number, says the British Empire Leprosy Relief Association, 200,000 are "dangerous cases" urgently in need of treatment.

"This means special treatment in settlements segregated from the main living areas," Henry S. M. Hoare, secretary of the association, told the Canadian Press.

Of these serious cases only about one-fifth are being provided for at present.

Hoare said the world total of leprosy cases was "in the neighborhood of 10,000,000, of whom only about 10 per cent are getting any kind of treatment."

In Britain there were probably 300 lepers, the majority of whom did not know they were suffering from the disease. In Canada, as far as he knew, only one case has been reported.

From modest headquarters in the heart of London, the British Empire Leprosy Relief Association is grappling with a dreaded disease which in some parts of Africa afflicts as many as one in 20 of the population.

LIVE ON DONATIONS

"We spend more than $50,000 ($55,000) each year," Hoare said, "and all of it comes from private donations. These, unfortunately, are pitifully inadequate for our needs."

Working with Hoare is a small team of doctors and analysts. One of them is 50-year-old Dr. Gordon Ryrie, who for nearly 20 years was in charge of a leper colony at Sungai Buloh, Malaya.

"Children are our greatest problem," Dr. Ryrie said. "If we could get at the children in the early stages of infection, we would be well along the road to stamping out the disease entirely."

Only leper colony remaining in Britain is located in a lonely part of Sussex. It houses 14 lepers and is only for British subjects.

ROBIN HOOD BUTTERMILK SCONES

2 cups sifted Robin Hood Flour 4 tablespoons shortening
1/2 teaspoon soda 3/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons
1/2 teaspoon salt buttermilk or sour milk

Wonderful old-fashioned scones that'll melt in your mouth—brought up-to-date and made better with Robin Hood!

1. Sift together flour, baking soda and salt into mixing bowl. Cut shortening into small pieces and add to dry ingredients. Blend together until mixture is mealy, using pastry blender (or two knives, cutting in with scissor-like motion).

2. Make a well in the center of mixture and gradually add the buttermilk or sour milk, stirring lightly with fork. Mix only until soft dough is formed.

3. Turn out onto lightly floured bakeboard or pastry cloth and divide in two equal portions. Gently roll out each piece with floured rolling pin or pat out with hand into circles 1 1/2 inch thick. Place circles on ungreased cookie sheet and cut in quarters, but do not separate the pieces. Bake at 450°F. (very hot oven) for 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 8 individual scones.

Victoria Audience Reacts With Demands For Encores

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON
Tenors are generally known to be scarce commodities—but not this week in Victoria, where two of the distinguished Metropolitan Opera have followed each other in as many days. Wednesday night's concert, however, turned out to be one of the year's highlights as the long-awaited Jussi Björling sang his way through a rich program with impervious ease.

One of the world's leading exponents of the art of bel canto, the Swedish tenor roused his Royal Theatre capacity audience to shouted "encores" following the "M'appari" aria from "Martha" and the Flower Song from "Carmen."

The voice that is a top favorite with thousands of people all over the world was in excellent form Wednesday night. The beautiful texture and resonance, constant throughout his superb range, resulted in soul-stirring crescendos without a trace of harshness and fading, ultimate notes whose last, faint echo was as pure and free as at the moment of attack. Björling gains his dramatic effects with absolutely no physical straining. His virtuosic use of the great instrument that is his voice is all he requires to impart the emotional content of his songs.

And for that reason, he is nearly ideal as a performer of operatic excerpts on the concert stage—we suspect possibly even more so than on the operatic stage. A certain lack of warmth in his manner; a failure to make direct sympathetic contact with his audience.

There was a somewhat remote quality to his singing of a group of lieder, but the phrases were exquisitely polished and there was always a fine tonal balance. A generous number of encores included "The Dream" from "Manon" and just one concession to popular taste—"Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair."

The competent accompanist was Frederick Schauwacker.

Public Outcry Causes Preservation Of Pandora Green

With its gentle slope and graceful aisle of trees, Pandora Green will be preserved unscathed. Storm of protest descended on City Council after it approved erection of $100,000 welfare building on upper end of green. During outburst it was discovered Pandora Green, officially known as Harris Green after city's first mayor, was unmarked on city assessment roll and listed only as Pandora Avenue in Land Registry Office. Such description meant it was a public highway and not the city's to transfer. Council will rescind its motion next Tuesday. Today 45 ratepayers in the 1100 block, opposite the green, filed a petition protesting erection of welfare building "in their front yard."

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW

Power Soon To Make Movie At Philippines' Location

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tyron Power, a Marco Polo among movie stars, will continue his traveling ways.

Hollywood's most traveled actor is working here for the first time in two years. He has made films in Mexico, Italy, North Africa and Britain; he will leave next month to make a picture in the Philippines.

I asked him when he would give up his globe-girdling and settle down.

"There's time enough for that," he answered. "In my travels, I've seen too many old people sitting around on the decks of boats and trying to enjoy trips they had waited too long to take.

STILL YOUNG

"Naturally I'm lucky to be able to take these trips while I'm still young enough to enjoy them. I'm not letting the opportunity pass by."

Besides his film-making jaunts, Ty has made extensive air tours of South America and Africa in the postwar years. Since he has been to the Orient through courtesy of the Marine Corps, that leaves Scandinavia as the only major area he hasn't visited.

Ty said he has his traveling habits down to a system so moving from one spot on the globe to another is almost painless. He can travel light, since on his picture jaunts he spends most of the day in a costume. He admitted it was a different matter with his wife, Linda Christian.

"She may start out traveling light," he said, "but she has a knack of finding places to buy things, no matter where we go."

Poll Tax Abolition Asked In B.C. House

The poll tax, amounting to approximately $50,000, should be abolished, the Legislature was told Wednesday.

Speaker was C. W. Morrow, Cdn. North Okanagan, who said the tax fell unjustly on the taxpayers in that it was no respecter of income.

Abolition of the tax would assist thousands of citizens in the lower income bracket, Mr. Morrow said.

Vancouver Flooded With Phony Diamonds

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police warned Wednesday that a synthetic diamond ring, peddling "nearly perfect imitations" is operating here. They said the phony gems have even fooled jewelers.

A diamond expert who appraised one of the stones for police said it was worth about $5 and would sell as a genuine stone for about $600 to $700.

Australian Govt. Planning To Outlaw Communists

No More Nationalization Of Industry Unless People Give Consent In Referendum

CANBERRA (CP)—Australia's new government gave notice Wednesday it plans legislation to outlaw the Communist Party in this country and to ban future nationalization of industry or commerce unless the voters wish it.

The legislative program was outlined at the opening of the first Parliament under the new Liberal-Country Party coalition headed by Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies. The Labor Party was defeated by the coalition in last December's election after eight years of power.

Details of proposed legislation to ban the Communists were not disclosed, but it is generally believed the Communist Party will be declared unlawful and that Communists will be barred from government posts and trade unions.

The program was presented in the Speech from the Throne on behalf of the Menzies government.

Besides anti-Communist action, it called for an amendment to the constitution to ban nationalization without the people's consent by referendum. Nationalization of several industries was carried out by parliamentary vote during the Labor administration.

McNAUGHTON VIEWS WORLD SITUATION

No Reason Seen For Great Anxiety Over Threat Of Soviet A-Attack

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, one of the world's foremost atomic authorities, said today that the western world at present has "no reason for undue anxiety" over the threat of an atomic attack by Russia.

But he warned in an address before the Canadian Club of Ottawa that the west must "press forward patiently and persistently in the fuller organization of the United Nations as the only real alternative to the fear of a war which might destroy our civilization."

TRACES EFFORTS

Tracing the repeated efforts made by the western powers to reach agreement with Russia on the question of setting up some means of international control of atomic energy that contained acceptable safeguards, Gen. McNaughton said some progress had been made, but not enough.

RUSTY RILEY

Reported Reds In U.S. Try To Prolong Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Un-American Activities Committee today received testimony indicating Communists may be trying to prolong the coal strike by bucking up the miners. Matthew Cvetlic, a former undercover agent for the F.B.I., said he had been told 50 youth leaders had been transported from New York for "work in the coal fields."

Cvetlic said they distributed food "as bait" while passing around copies of the Daily Worker, a Communist newspaper. He said the information was given him nearly two weeks ago by a Bill Gordon, whom he identified as a Communist organizer.

But, Cvetlic said, he knows of no actual Communist activity toward actual stoppage of coal production. Gordon told him the 50 imported youth leaders are members of the Labor Youth League, created and controlled by the Communist Party.

Truman To Act To Avert Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today that President Truman probably will create an emergency board Friday or Saturday to head off a threatened nationwide railroad strike.

The Brotherhood of Conductors and Trainmen have called a strike for 6 a.m. Sunday. The unions represent between 200,000 and 250,000 workers.

The unions' principal demand is for a 40-hour week for some 85,000 yard service employees, without a cut in pay from their present 48-hour scale.

Defence To Claim Woman Already Dead

MANCHESTER, N.H. (BUP)—A sheriff today quoted Dr. Hermann N. Sander as saying that, in a weak moment, he and his patient's husband had agreed to go through with the mercy slaying of Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto.

At the same time, the defence at Dr. Sander's mercy murder trial indicated it will try to prove that his cancer-ridden patient already was dead before he injected air in her veins.

Second startling disclosure came during cross-examination of the first prosecution witness, Dr. Harold I. L. Loverud. An X-ray specialist, he is staff president of Hillsborough County Hospital, where Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto, 59, died last Dec. 4, allegedly after Dr. Sander administered the air.

In opening the prosecution's case, he had quoted the 41-year-old defendant as saying he injected the lethal dose of air to his dying patient only after her husband had begged him to do so to relieve her suffering. Dr. Sander also was quoted that Mrs. Borroto "would have lived two more days" if he had not injected the air.

It was while white-haired chief defence counsel Louis E. Wyman was cross-questioning Dr. Loverud that the new theory—that Mrs. Borroto already was dead when the air was injected—was disclosed.

The state's second witness was William L. Cain of Manchester, a funeral director and operator of an ambulance service.

Under direct examination by Assistant Atty-Gen. William S. Green, Cain testified that when he and his 18-year-old son took Mrs. Borroto from her home to a hospital last Nov. 20 she "probably weighed 60 to 75 pounds."

He said after her death he noticed her body was "extremely emaciated."

Cain testified on direct examination that when he embalmed the body of Mrs. Borroto he "removed all the blood possible from her veins" before injecting the embalming fluid.

It was expected that Cain's testimony might be used by the State later in combatting possible testimony by a defence pathologist about the cause of death in an autopsy performed Jan. 21.

Asked during lunch recess why the State had not held Mrs. Borroto's husband as an accessory, in view of the disclosures Phinney made in his opening statement, the Attorney-General replied:

NOT ACCESSORY
"We found no basis on which he could be charged as an accessory."

It was in his opening statement that Phinney, former schoolmate of the defendant, quoted Dr. Sander as saying Mrs. Borroto's husband urged him to hasten her death.

Phinney devoted nearly an hour to his opening. He said Dr. Biron asked Dr. Sander if he had broken the law.

90 Planes Go Under Decision To China Reds

HONGKONG (AP)—The Hongkong Supreme Court tonight lifted an injunction against 90 impounded planes, claimed by retired U.S. Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault. The surprise action means the planes pass into Chinese Communist hands.

The planes, formerly owned by Nationalist-controlled air lines, are valued at $20,000,000.

Chennault and associates said they had purchased the planes from the Nationalist government. Pro-Red employees of the firms claimed them for Communist China.

The court ruled against Chennault's claim of ownership. The planes will be flown to Peiping, seat of the Chinese Communist government, probably within a week.

Police are reported to have made 150 arrests in the last two days in an effort to check the violence which already has resulted in 30 deaths and at least 130 wounded.

The rioting was precipitated by the slaying of a Moslem minor official Monday.

Today's looting was directed mainly against Moslem-owned shops and houses. With British troops to help them, the police today cordoned off the non-European quarters of Asmara to check looting. Firemen put out fires which started simultaneously at several points.
